There were drop spots set up at Krager’s, CVS, Family Dollar, both fire stations in Channelview.
Several local businesses collected toys at their facility and dropped them off at our station: J.L. Saddles, Family Rental, CSSD Bus Bar, CSSD FPA. The entire Fire Department held an all day event @ Chick Fila for a year.

When the event was over the toys were dropped off at Wharton Boys and Girls Club,作文 by email Velma I. Richey

San Jacinto College film contest open to high school students, film local artist.

NORTH SHORE

HOU STON - The San Ja cin to College Film and Video program is sponsoring a 52-hour contest for high school students and local film artists. The contest will have two categories, one for high school students, and one for local artists.

On-site registration is 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 24, at the Jerry Powell Arena Theatre located on the Central Campus at 8800 Spons ored by the University of Houston, in the event @ Chick Fil @A for a year.

The contest starts at 6 p.m. on the same date and location. Participants have until 10 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 26, to work on their projects, at which time judging will begin to determine winner.

We envision the contest as a fun way to bring top student and local filmmakers from around the area together to learn from and experience the work of peers,” commented Billy McVeigh, San Jacinto College video production professor.

Travel awards will reward the same prizes: A $50 gift card to Chick-Fil-A, a $100 gift card to Chick-Fil-A, and a $250 gift card to Chick-Fil-A for a year.

All the entries must be in a completed short film. The contest must occur within the 52-hour contest period: writing, rehearsing, shooting, editing, graphics, etc.

Awards and certificates will be presented for best screenplay, best cinematography, best editing, best use of props, best use of costume, and other categories.

Details about registration and other information is available online at arts.sanjac.edu.

Address needs cleaned up... and more
Comment: How can we get the city and county to clean up the Wallisville road area, especially all the way from the area starting at Christian Tabernacle Church all the way to Harry Road. This is handled by Commissioner Jack Mormans office so far as the bridge, but the rest of the way is the city. I called him over a year ago & asked him to pick up the trash and to clean up the area at the former Udyle Ranch apt. & here it is a white year later, and still all the trash is there, & now 2 trees are dead & about to fall on Wallisville road. I have contacted Austin with Mormans office about reappropriating the road as well, and that was 3 months ago, & still I am almost side crapped everyday due to people not knowing where the lane is because the stripes are gone.

Also the nursing home Legend on the other end of Wallisville, needs its own turn lane & 4 ft of their location, it is Extremely dangerous getting a car out of that location. I have contacted Commissioner Jack Mormans office, and they say they can’t move it in his jurisdiction. We really need to make this area a lot cleaner. If someone would call a dumpster, I will clean it all up myself. I am afraid of work at all, how about get the football teams of Galena Park School District involved they can pick me up??? thank you and I am sure we have a Locust on this side of town again.

Crosby Fire Fighters earn respect

Kevin Pipes was awarded by Bob Boyles and Chief Kulak for Officer of the Year. Isaac Pinson was awarded for 10 Years of Service to the department by Chief Kulak.

Kevin Pipes, a Fire Marshal and active volunteer was selected as Officer of the Year and that token is said by his peers to represent lots of devotion. When asked why he got the award he simply responded that “The membership thought I did the best job of the seven of us.”

But when further pressed Pipes admitted “I did not expect to receive this award, so many other officers contribute so much to the department. I spent a lot of time and hours at the fire department I feel like the membership saw my contribution more than others’ efforts, but it was certainly worth it to get the award.”

Chris Reed, father to Rodney Reed, husband of Chairperson of the Crosby-Huffman Chamber of Commerce, Wendy Reed, was the first to receive the Safety Award, really for being mentor to other firefighters. He is credited taught the most skills and concepts to other firefighters.

Isaac Pinson, Mike Sims, Rodney Reed, Chief Alan Kulak, Russell White, Ruben Leal and Kevin Pipes. Below, Crosby Volunteer Fire Dept. Ladies Auxiliary make the effort possible.

Report proposes plans toward water security

"A grant program to provide assistance to local water authorities," said the report, "is needed to bring water treatment plants up to the standards required by law. We need a robust water treatment system in place before we can move forward with drought management." The report also recommended creating a task force to develop a comprehensive drought management plan.

Drought disaster continues

Gov. Rick Perry on Jan. 10 renewed his July 5 declaration of a "drought disaster proclamation," which allows state agencies to use emergency funds to help communities affected by the drought.

"Texas has been prone to cycles of drought for centuries and there is no reason to expect that this will change," Combes said in bringing attention to the report. "Yet our state has challenged the resilience of its population and economy by creating an increasingly unsustainable demand for water," she added.

Available at the comptroller's website, the report outlines a series of recommendations to address the water crisis, including:

- A grant program to provide assistance to local water authorities.
- A rapid response program to address immediate needs.
- A task force to develop a comprehensive drought management plan.

The report also highlighted the need for a revolution in water management, including the implementation of innovative technologies and conservation practices.

Feature: Cat-dog relationship

In the early part of his book, "The Cat-dog relationship," the author discussed various aspects of the relationship between cats and dogs, including the role of pets in the family and the importance of socialization.

"As the years progressed," the author wrote, "the relationship between Mr. Chicken and Mr. Cat became more serious and dealt with more serious issues." The author explained that the relationship between Mr. Chicken and Mr. Cat was marked by a deep trust and mutual understanding.

"We wondered how the relationship would turn out," the author continued. "The answer was, yes. The more the relationship evolved, the more serious and deal with more serious issues."

The author concluded that the relationship between Mr. Chicken and Mr. Cat was a positive experience that taught valuable lessons about trust, understanding, and communication.

The State Fire Marshal's Office plans to conduct a series of meetings in the coming months to educate local authorities about best practices for managing and maintaining their facilities.

"Parties involved in the initiative are the Texas Division of Emergency Management, the state's Department of Agriculture and Environmental Protection," the report stated. "The purpose of the meetings is to review best practices for managing and maintaining facilities based on the lessons learned from the April 2013 fertilizer plant explosion in West, Texas."
Chambers Health adds Christopher Wallace to medical team

Physician assistant part of growing healthcare provider

"I think what I look forward to most about working in the community is connecting with patients in the surrounding area by providing the quality of care they’ve come to expect from Chambers Health. My experience in healthcare and genuine interest in family medicine is what drives my passion and I know our patients will see that when I move south," said Wallace who will now see patients at 5045 W. Bay Area Blvd., a facility of Chambers Health.

"We’re excited to add Christopher to our amazing medical team that provides advanced radiology services including CT and MRI scans, orthopedic surgery, spinal care, physical therapy, ear, nose, and throat, and more. Chambers Health also operates Bayline Clinic, West Chamber Medical Center, The Wellness Center at Bayside, and Bayside Dental. For more information, please visit www.chambershealth.org.”

When should I go to the doctor if I have symptoms of the flu?

Guidance for the public during the influenza season

Many people with seasonal flu fully recover without going to the doctor or taking antiviral medications. However, others experience complications if they become ill with influenza.

Talk to your healthcare provider

Most people recover fully from the flu (influenza) without complications. However, people who are at higher risk for complications from the flu or who have already developed severe complications should be treated or observed for influenza-like illness.

People with influenza-like illness who are at high risk should speak with their healthcare provider as soon as possible.

Children younger than 5 but especially children younger than 2 years old

- Adults 65 years of age or older
- Pregnant women

Patients with these conditions should seek healthcare

- Chronic pulmonary disease including asthma, chronic bronchitis, or emphysema
- Cardiac disease
- Diabetes mellitus
- Liver disease
- Renal disease
- Immunosuppression
- Infections caused by HIV or medications (cancer chemotherapeutic agents, medications to prevent rejection after transplant, or medications for organ or tissue transplants)

People with these conditions should stay home

- If you have the flu and are not at high risk
- Those who have symptoms of influenza

Get Emergency Medical Care if you have

- Difficulty breathing or coughing that makes it hard to get oxygen
- Inability to wake or hard to rouse
- Changes in mental status or behavior especially if accompanied by high fever or lack of tears when crying
- Very Besides these nine situations or in people younger than 4 years old or older than 64 years old or those with high fever even if they are not at high risk

FNE JEWELRY

with Jim Mills

Diamond Jim... what is the difference between “karat” and “carat”?

The term karat is used to indicate the purity of a metal, usually gold. However, the term carat is used to indicate the weight of precious stones. The karat system is used in all countries and is a very soft metal that is not able to be used practically as jewelry in its purest form. It would quickly become deformed and scratched. Therefore, jewelry makers must do something to fortify the metal. That is accomplished by mixing gold with a harder metal, usually silver or platinum.

The karat is responsible, in part, for determining the cost of the piece. The difference in purity that can be found in 10 karat gold is less than half that of 14 karat gold, which is the highest purity of gold jewelry commonly available, can be significant. Gold designated as 10 karat is less than one-half as pure as 14 karat gold, which is 58 percent pure gold. If you have questions pertaining to jewelry, watch bands, precious stones, precious metals, and other jewelry-related questions, you may contact the jewelry industry at Jewelers of North America, small jeweljim@jewelers.org.

Chase and San Jacinto College to bring petrochemical focus to high school students

Chase recently announced $100,000 to the College for the Great Southland Careers/Your Future grant, which will fund a pilot program at North Shore High School, La Porte High School, South Houston High School, and Channelview High School. The program will help students learn about the careers, their families, and their school counselors about the high-wage/high demand jobs in the areas of oil and gas, process technology, diesel technology, maintaining heating, ventilation and air conditioning, engineering design, instrumentation, computer science, and engineering.

Designed by both Chase and San Jacinto College, the program is the first of its kind and will provide high school students with the means necessary to attain an education and a career. "We consider community colleges as the workforce training programs. Students into San Jacinto College will develop materials to outline educational pathways to inform students about the career sectors they will bridge this gap. We want to make sure that we are making the investments needed for our region’s economy and for our workers. Participants of the grant program will include high school counselors and their families, their road map and how to manage finances once employed.

Partners in the program will include high school counselors and their families, their road map and how to manage finances once employed.

Did you miss the registration deadline for Spring 2014?

Don’t worry, you can still take Take 2 with classes that begin Jan. 27, 2014. Enroll today!
