North Shore Girls Basketball team in State Playoff finals

SANANTONIO — Crash Miller. Campbell will lead his North Shore Lady Mustangs into the state 6A Region III semi-finals on Friday evening in a 7 p.m. game at the Alamodome.

This is the first time that the Lady Mustangs have made it this far in the playoffs in the school’s history. Their only loss this season was a 55-48 loss to Duncanville on February 26, which is the only team in the state that the Lady Mustangs have lost to this season.

Other high scores for their game were Emilee Ochoa with 22 points and 12 rebounds, and Victoria Blankenship with 10 points and 15 rebounds. Madisyn Francis had 8 points, 7 rebounds, 4 assists and 4 steals.

However, the Lady Mustangs will have to play their best game against Duncanville. "It’s a must-win game," said North Shore assistant coach Jeff Topp. He added that the Lady Mustangs will have to come out with a new mindset and execute their game plan.

The Lady Mustangs will play Duncanville on Saturday in the state semi-finals.

The Lady Mustangs are looking to make history by winning the state championship this year. "We’ve been waiting for this moment," said senior forward Allison Campbell. "We’ve been working hard to get to this point and we’re ready to take it home."

SHeldon ISD gearing up for its biggest annual fundraiser, the Sheldon Shuffle 5K run/walk. The race will take place on Saturday, April 16, 2016 at Deussen park, which is located at 12303 Sonnier St., Houston, TX 77044.

This year’s race is going through some changes. For starters, there’s a new route. Race organizers are that last year’s route went through a muddy area, so they worked with park officials to create a new route that is all concrete. Another change is that there will be no Kids 1K race, just the 5K. However, all ages are welcomed to register. Parents are encouraged to sign up with their child and join them in the race.

The Sheldon Shuffle was established five years ago and benefits the Sheldon Education Foundation. All proceeds raised go toward the Foundation, which allows grants to be awarded to Sheldon teachers and scholarships to students. Last year’s race raised more than $23,000. Those who are interested in running the race or making a donation can do so online at www.SheldonShuffle.com.

A group of Channelview High School Career and Technical Education students learned about careers in the heavy crane operating industry at an event held recent-ly.

Houston-based TNT Crane and Rigging, in conjunction with SkillsUSA, hosted a Lift and Move USA workshop on Feb. 8 that gave students a look at careers where cranes play an important role in major projects.

Whether it is loading trucks that will carry steel beams several stories high to be placed into place for a construction project, or lifting steel beams on a construction project, crane operators explained that it is a specialized field that is in demand," said Mia Young, CISD’s director of career and technical education.

Young said the workshop speakers explained specific roles in the crane and rigging field, which included the duties of crane operators, ironwork riggers, mechanics, maintenance technicians and drivers. At the event, students were able to tour the cranes and operate the machinery under the supervision of a certified crane operator.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, crane operators earn an average wage between $50,040 and $61,060 per year.

The Lift & Move USA programs are targeted at young people considering their future careers, including students in high school and those attending community and technical colleges. To learn more about the crane industry, visit www.liftandmoveusa.com.

How to Buy Your First House

By Brian Nielson

Step 1: Convince yourself that you do not need a house. Your 2-bedroom, 875 square foot home has plenty of space. You and your husband never even go into the extra room. You only have guests a few times a year, you hardly cook, and you have no kids, so why would you count your dog?...
The house is yours, but do not need a house.

Step 2: Start browsing.

Step 3: Develop a crash on a gorgeous site. While you were a quarter coming home, consider your next steps. You go to take in the house and decide which one you want to see. The condo is fine. You have no kids. (Unless you have guests a few times a year, they’re happy to stay a few days.)

Step 4: Make an offer. Negotiate with the seller's agent, or go to a local real estate agent. The agent will recommend a real estate attorney for you. If you have concerns about the house, ask your agent or the seller for a written inspection report. If you're not happy with the results, you have the option to terminate the contract. If you're happy with the inspection, the deal goes forward.

Step 5: Get a home inspection.

Step 6: Get a home warranty. A home warranty is a service contract that covers repairs to your home for a specific period of time. It can help protect you against unexpected expensive repairs. You may be able to negotiate a lower price on your insurance if you purchase a home warranty.

Step 7: Arrange a walk-through with the house and your realtor. Take note of all the flaws, and remind yourself to do this again in a few months. A million things could change in the next few months, and you don't want to be surprised later.

Step 8: Final approval. You have a house now, and you're happy. Congratulations!

The condo is fine. You have no kids. (Unless you have guests a few times a year, they’re happy to stay a few days.)

Step 9: Make an offer. Negotiate with the seller's agent, or go to a local real estate agent. The agent will recommend a real estate attorney for you. If you have concerns about the house, ask your agent or the seller for a written inspection report. If you're not happy with the results, you have the option to terminate the contract. If you're happy with the inspection, the deal goes forward.

Step 10: Close the deal. You have a house now, and you're happy. Congratulations!

The condo is fine. You have no kids. (Unless you have guests a few times a year, they’re happy to stay a few days.)

Step 11: Move in. This is the moment. This mile- stone. This is the moment. It's time to make your house your home.

Step 12: Consider a refinancing. If you think you might want to move in the future, consider refinancing your mortgage. This can help lower your monthly payments and potentially save you money in the long run.

Step 13: Enjoy your new home. It's time to make your house your home.
Highlands Food Pantry is a community resource

HIGHLANDS — The Food Pantry in Highlands serves those in the community that are in need of basic food supplies, and can’t afford them due to their circumstances.

They may be transients, homeless, have food problems, unemployed, or just not able to afford decent food.

Melissa Harper, director of the Highlands Food Pantry, explained to the Rotary Club how they or anyone in the community can help.

She suggested that you can pay for the food, donate financially to the Pantry, donate food items, or at the Relief Box, set up in front of the building, set out baskets of food.

This activity has been supported for many years at the Rotary Club, president Larry White noted at the club meeting.

Food items that could be donated include canned vegetables, peanut butter & jelly, pasta products, canned noodles, canned beans, dressings, baby food, milk powder, and more.

To qualify for assistance you must be a resident of Highlands, and show an ID or utility bill.

Recipients can come to the Food Pantry once a month. It is open every Thursday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Over the past year Harper said, the Food Pantry has served about 55 to 70 families each month, “That amount to almost 200 adults and children in the community that are helped.”

Currently the Food Bank is operating in the red, and Harper encouraged anyone who can to step to the church and donate.

The Rotary Club responded by donating $100 and going on a shopping trip, with the help of Sheree Smith, and givin the Pantry 400 cans of food.

Melissa Harperst is director of the Highlands Food Pantry.

Should You Retire in “Stages”?

By Edward Jones

For many people, the concept of retirement can be scary, both emotionally and financially. If you, too, feel somewhat anxious about what awaits you, you might feel more comfortable in knowing that, depending on where you work, you may be able to delay your retirement.

As its name suggests, retiring in phases typically involves reducing one’s work hours from full-time to part-time, and then, eventually, to complete retirement. For some workers, the social relationships of work and the compensation of your identity with what you do at your job, that type of gradual transition may be easier for you to accommodate than the abrupt transition from “worker” to “retiree.”

So, if you had planned to work until you reach age 62, but your monthly paychecks will not last your life, you could help provide you with sufficient income to last your lifetime. But if you continue to work, you may not have to rely on heavy on your Social Security – that is, your IBA, IRA, 401K and all retirement accounts held outside them – to help you meet your income needs. Consequently, during those extra years of work, you may be able to withdraw less, or even no benefits from your Social Security, than potentially allowing more assets to provide for your lifestyle needs.

As you can see, a “phased-in” retirement could help provide you with options to reduce your Social Security benefits as early as age 62, but your monthly paychecks will not last your life, you could help provide you with sufficient income to last your lifetime. But if you continue to work, you may not have to rely on your Social Security – that is, your IBA, IRA, 401K and all retirement accounts held outside them – to help you meet your income needs.
