THOUGHTS FROM
MARANATHA CHURCH

By Dr. Mark Trice

Wild Weather

The world has experienced a lot of wild weather lately. Well... not just lately. In fact, the word insane has been used more than once in the past few years. Be it through a snowstorm, hurricane, drought, or even just days on end of nothing but rain, the weather has the ability to wreak havoc and push us all to, and even beyond, our limits. And what do we do? We deal.

Hurricanes, record-breaking hurricanes, have pounded the country in the past year. Around here, we of course think most recently of Hurricane Harvey. That completely unanticipated devastation pushed us about as far as you can be pushed...and many are still out of their homes. Harvey wasn't just about homes flooding, though. It affected us in all areas. For instance, think about all the cattle that surrounds us. These ranchers know their livestock depends on them for their very survival, and these men and women do not take that responsibility lightly. Ever. Whatever the weather, regardless of their personal circumstances, they do what it takes to protect the animals in their care.

For example, in Liberty county they've had two cattle drives in the past three years as flood waters forced ranchers to act swiftly and move whole herds to higher ground. These drives made the news, being a thing seldom witnessed in modern days. Both were highly complicated, nerve-wracking endeavors involving cowboys, police departments and more. Locals lined the streets, wielding cell phones as they recorded these history-making events. They thought it was amazing, a true experience; but you know the cows and volunteers were just glad when the drives were over.

We are ready to fight for those who depend on us, be they people or animals. Given this fact, it ought not surprise us to learn that God is even more focused on taking great care of, and fighting for, us. He promises in Psalm 91 that if we'll live in His secret place we'll stay under His protective shadow. That psalm also declares that – if we actively choose to stay hidden in Him - He will be our refuge, our fortress, our deliverer, our protector...

Does all of this mean that storms will never come our way? Obviously not, but it does mean He will be right there with us when they do. Just as those cowboys took their horses into deep waters to drive the herds to safety, so will God enter the deep waters for us. He may part the waters, He may push them away, or He may guide us through them, but as long as we rely on Him we will reach that place of safety. No matter how wild the weather gets, Hebrews 13:5 and Deuteronomy 31:6, assure us that our God will never leave us or forsake us, because we are His.

All-Star Gala hits a Home Run for Education Foundation

BAYTOWN – While the Houston Astros may not have repeated a World Championship, the Goose Creek CISD Education Foundation does plan to repeat its amazing performance and hit another grand slam with its All-Star Gala scheduled for September 14, 2019 at Minute Maid Park.

The inaugural gala was the first of its kind for the foundation and had the stadium buzzing with excitement from the moment guests walked through the doors of the exclusive Diamond Club on September 29. The event raised more than $86,000 for the foundation.

"It's my hope that the children we impact today flourish in their initiatives of tomorrow," said Foundation President Laurie Terry. "Because of all our generous sponsors, they can. We hope the community will join us next year to assist us in generating more resources to allow us to continue to fund additional grants for our teachers and, ultimately, improve the education of our children."

The money raised from the sponsors, ticket sales and auction will help the foundation support educators at the district in their classrooms. Each year, teachers apply for funding in their classrooms for a particular innovative project or materials to help enrich the curriculum for their students. The foundation has awarded more than $1 million in teaching grants and designated funds for projects since its inception in 2009.

Goose Creek CISD employs nearly 3,000 and serves more than 23,000 students at its 28 campuses many of which are Title I schools with economically disadvantaged students.

Grants range from reading programs to butterfly gardens to welding machinery and more – all vital support to help students of all ages to have a competitive advantage when they graduate from the district.

"We're able to enrich the curriculum and it will benefit the students in the long-run," said Erika Foster,

The World Famous Kilgore College Rangerettes not only escorted guests throughout the venue and hyped up the live auction, but they also helped get the dance floor hopping in the Diamond Club with a conga line.

director of the foundation. "Without the foundation, the teachers would not be able to fund innovative ideas they have – some of which could make a pivotal difference in the lives of our youth. You never know how one of these grants will inspire a young mind and change the course of their future."

During the program, guests heard from a foundation grant recipient and Robert E. Lee High School Teacher Jonathan (Johan) Richards. Richards who was recently diagnosed with Stage 4 Hodgkin's lymphoma was described as a "true hero in the classroom" by Jason Bristol, KHOU sports director and event emcee, at the event.

"What the education foundation does is an absolute lifeline and they allow us to write grants and explain our dream and our vision and they fund that for us," Richard said. "Then our kids go from here and they go out and do incredible things."

Richards, who received a standing ovation after his speech, was awarded more than $600 this year for a machine allowing his engineering students to cut gears to the precise requirements for their projects.

And while raising money for the important cause was the purpose, attendees of the gala did it while enjoying the unique venue. Guests took photos along the baseball field where tables were set up along the baseline and replicated Alex Bregman's viral post-home run stare-downs in the Astros dugouts.

Many guests engaged with the celebrity emcees KHOU's Meteorologist Chita Craft and Bristol who engaged the audience from the podium on the field as well as with the World Famous Kilgore College Rangerettes who performed in the Diamond Club.

Attendees even had fun when it came to their wardrobes as attendees admired the creativeness surrounding the "formal with a sports twist" attire theme. The many creative and engaging ensembles ranged from custom sports-related shoes, earrings, ties, purses, cufflinks to even a full custom Astros-inspired gown worn by the gala's chairperson Jennifer Walsh.

Goose Creek students added special touches to the gala. Stuart Career Tech High School and Robert E. Lee High School welding students used their skills to put together table decorations while the Ross S. Sterling High School Orchestra, under the direction of Camille Gates, provided beautiful music for guests upon entering the venue.

Anyone interested in sponsoring for next year's gala can contact Erika Foster at erika.foster@gccisd.net.

ASK THE EXPERT

Ask Diamond Jim: "Does the price/value of diamonds stay the same over time?"

ASK DIAMOND JIM

Key Points:

- With continued economic growth around the world and more demand for luxury goods and decline in the mining of diamonds, it is expected that the prices of high gem quality natural diamonds will increase by roughly 6% each year until 2020.
- While the overall health of the economy influences the prices of diamonds, in general this gemstone has gained value over the years. Data shows the prices of diamonds over the past ten years have increased by approximately 32-33%, giving it an average of 4% every year.
- De Beers no longer controls the largest supply of diamonds as their market shares have fallen from roughly 90% in the 80s to close to 30% now. This is good news because it shows that diamonds can hold its value even when its supply is not controlled by a large cooperation.
- While many pundits would suggest that diamond is not a good investment, it is not necessary true. If you get the diamond from a trusted source at fair price and it is a top gem quality stone, diamond is one of the best commodities you could own. People are not insane to invest billions of dollars in this alluring gemstone. However, it is a different story if you buy the gemstone at a 400-700% marked up price as is sometimes the case in big chain jewelry stores.

Detailed analysis:

Determining the best price for a diamond is critical for investors and consumers alike. This rare and alluring gemstone has been around for years and, all this time, its price has been quite high. To understand diamond and how its market value has been over the past half century or so, it is important to have a good perspective of the worldwide diamond industry. The value of the diamond has always been high since it was discovered and the main factor that affects this is the demand for diamond jewelry. With continued economic growth in the world, the demand for diamonds is expected to have a positive increase in the future.

With increased demand for this unique gemstone over the coming years, eventually demand will be way higher than the growth of diamond production. This is due to the slowdown of current mines and the lack of discovering new mines for this mineral. With the increase in demand of diamonds, more and more companies have come to the realization that such demand would affect prices globally.

If compared to another mineral such as gold, diamond prices haven't fluctuated as much, but they have changed nevertheless. Surveys show that the price of diamonds over the past 8 years has increased by approximately 33%, giving it an average of 4% every year. The size of the diamond will highly affect the price of the diamond. You will find that large type of diamonds (weighing about three carats or more) will fluctuate more compared to the smaller diamonds (weighing 2.99 carat and below to 0.50 carats). When you look at larger diamonds, you will notice that they have gradually increased in price over the past fifteen years, more than doubling their prices. The 4 carat diamonds (most active type) tripled between the year 2004 and 2008. When you look at the changes in prices of the smaller diamonds (0.50 to 2.99 carat) you will notice that the change in price over the past years is smaller.

While the price you pay for diamonds may change from year-to-year, the unique beauty, appeal and luster of this amazing natural stone will likely remain as it is . . . unrivaled. You can learn more about diamonds on a personal level by visiting the experts at Pineforest Jewelry.

Grateful, Thankful and Blessed

We live in some turbulent times yet we have so many reasons to celebrate the season of Thanksgiving. I look around and I see many eyesores in the area, from abandoned buildings and homeless individuals, yet I see a community that is still prospering after decades and mostly without the benefits of being part of a city. Much of the North Channel Area is a part of the unincorporated area. We may work, shop, dine out and spend money in the City of Houston, yet we do not reap the same benefits.

One thing is for sure, the Eastside of Harris County is filled with love and pride. There are numerous churches that have been active for 60+ years. There is a Community College that has been in the area since the 1970's and a number of families with deep roots.

While the demographics have greatly changed, we embrace the diversity. Our schools teach our children about cultural sensitivity by the many programs they offer throughout the year. Our local ISDs are represented by a diverse group of Superintendents. Our elected officials represent African Americans, Hispanics, Caucasians and we are truly blessed to have both male and female leaders.

While we may not have a major hospital after Hurricane Harvey, we are thankful for a variety of Urgent Care and Emergency Rooms in the community. We have physicians who have been serving the community for multiple generations. We have many high school graduates who further their education at San Jacinto College and then transfer to a four-year university or go directly to one. It appears that many of these young adults have decided to come back to the community and open businesses as well as serve in the areas of Rotary, North Channel Area Chamber and many of the youth athletic groups. You cannot help but be proud and thankful when you go to any of the local school districts and see former students now teaching or serving in administrative positions or on the School Board.

I truly appreciate those young men and women who have graduated, gone into professional sports as well as the military and come back to make a difference. I see people like Judge Joe Stephens, retired NFL Player Cory Redding, and Army Veteran Laura Jackson who were among the first to help out after Hurricane Harvey. I see emerging leaders such as Cedric Washington, Ernest and Kelly Simon, Trey Narcisse, Donnie Williams, Von Guidry, Reed Clark, Australia Edinborough and others step up and get involved. It takes leaders such as Brian Allen, who founded the North Shore Gents years ago, who stays in contact with 90% of his former students as well as Dr Cornelius Wilson, who is not only still practicing in our community since the early 1990's but has moved forward with becoming a John Maxwell Certified Speaker and Coach. His first Mastermind classes were taught to those who had been patients and friends for 20 years. Now he has moved forward and is helping others to develop leadership skills.

Again, as we near the Thanksgiving holiday, we have much to be grateful and thankful for and certainly should consider ourselves blessed. Enjoy your holiday with family, friends, neighbors and be sure to smile at the stranger in the check-out line or on the street corner.

meeting and Chip Place (hand raised), Managing Director of Capital Projects for the Houston Parks Board together explained the intentions of the Parks Boards trail and answered questions of the concerned citizens present.

Kasianowitz and Place explained it as part of Bayou Greenways 2020, the Houston Parks Board is working on a new greenway segment for the Hunting Bayou Greenway, which will ultimately connect from Manitou Drive near 610, through Herman Brown Park, to Maxey Park along Maxey Road, with the trail connecting into the existing trail network in Herman Brown Park in the middle. Construction is tentatively set for spring/summer of 2019.

Citizens were concerned about an increase in walking and vehicular traffic in their neighborhood which could then bring an increase in crime, crowded street parking in front of their homes from people driving there to use the trail. Police surveillance for security to prevent thefts and break-ins of their homes and maintenance of the trail to prevent littering issues were raised.

Iris Jones a nearby homeowner said, "For 30 years we have lived peacefully in Wood Shadows II subdivision. Since Hurricane Harvey we've had an increase in crime in our neighborhood, making it unsafe to use our front yards, so our backyards are now our safe havens. To erect an unlit walking trail so close behind our homes is dangerous, unwise, and totally unacceptable!"

John Celestine said, "In 1976, we had disturbing noise from racing dirt bikes and other traffic on this easement behind our properties. We banned together and acquired a surface lease from Kinder Morgan, built gardens, filled in mosquito, snake, & rodent holes. We spent hours of work to block the nuisance traffic in the easement, if the bike trail is routed behind our homes, it will take us back to 1976."

Daniel Renfrow said, "We received our garden lease 30 years ago and have a garden every year, yet the first notification we got was recently when bulldozers showed up! These actions by City of Houston will absolutely kill us! This is not some knee jerk decision by these bike trail folks, the sites were walked prior to marking the trails with paint and survey flags. Yet no one noticed how belligerent they were being with their authority. Just because the City can shove this down our throats, they need to ask if they should. I believe it is their harassment technique! At every meeting we've had with the City the subject of buyout comes up. Forcing us to accept their buyout is the perfect answer. This location would be perfect to turn over to a developer to convert to apart-

GALENA PARK ISD

Galena Park ISD hosts Veterans Day Luncheon

Dr. Williams, superintendent of schools, with Navy Veterans

As part of a week dedicated to honoring those who have served our nation, Galena Park ISD hosted its annual Veterans Day Luncheon on November 9. More than 150 veterans and their family members attended the event and were honored by the North Shore Senior High School's Perfect Harmony, who performed the theme song from each military branch and finished with the Star Spangled Banner. There were also letters written to the veterans on the tables by elementary students with special readings from the Veterans Day essay contest winners, Maileen Guzman from Pyburn Elementary School and Marcelo Cardenas from North Shore Elementary

Maileen wrote, "Veterans are bold and courageous. They are warriors. They are remarkable because they help us and protect us."

Linda Jamail and Maria Delgado from Representative Ana Hernandez' office; Constable Clint Brown from Constable Christopher Diaz' office;

Wanda Heath Johnson, Galena Park ISD Board President; and Wilfred J. Broussard, Jr., Galena Park ISD Board Vice President stopped by to express their appreciation to our veterans.

GPISD would like to thank all of the veterans and family members who attended the Veterans Day Luncheon.

ments, town homes, and the tax base would increase 4 or 5 times more than our single family 50 year old homes bring."

Kinder Morgan representatives present stated they'd assist the community gardeners by putting up fencing to protect the garden from the trail users.

Kasianowitz said, "The Houston Parks Board has been in communication with the Houston Police Department (HPD) about the project components and timeframe and community questions on the coming Hunting Bayou Greenway project. Safety on the Bayou Greenways is a high priority. It has been studied and proven nationally, and we have seen in our experience building greenways along multiple bayous in Houston, that thoughtful design and regular maintenance of the greenways, combined with growing community use of those greenways, are very effective in deterring crime. By practice, after each greenway is built, we continue to coordinate with HPD on any issues that warrant their attention." She said she envisions HPD's Bicycle Patrol to be visible on park trails.

Citizens were told through an 80-year agreement with the City of Houston, the Parks Board has the responsibility of maintenance and conservation along the Bayou Greenway System, including this trail area. They'll keep maintenance work to a high standard, and activities along the greenways include weekly littering, bi-weekly mowing, quick replacement of damaged portions of trails or amenities, removal of graffiti from the trail or amenities, flood debris cleanup and staff presence on the Greenway trails on a daily basis mid-week.

The construction budget for the entire segment from Manitou Drive to Maxey Road is $4,475,000.00. The Bayou Greenways 2020 effort will complete a 150-mile hike-and-bike trail network along eight of Houston's major waterways. It is a $220 million project funded by a $100 million bond passed by Houston voters in 2012, and by $120 million in philanthropic funds and grants raised by the Houston Parks Board. The funding is applied to land acquisition, design and construction of the greenways.

Houston Parks Board is a nonprofit organization dedicated to providing access to quality parks and green space in the Greater Houston region. Our mission is to create, improve, protect and advocate for parks for everyone.

Since 2012, the nonprofit has been leading the Bayou Greenways 2020 project in partnership with the City of Houston and Houston Parks and Recreation Department as well as in close coordination with the Harris County Flood Control District.
