Project Recovery-Harvey starts in East Harris County

BARRETT STATION – The new leadership of Harris County turned out in force to announce Harris County Project Recovery-Harvey Program at the Harris County Barrett Community Center last Saturday.

Lina Hidalgo, Harris County Judge, Adrian Garcia, Precinct 2 Commissioner, Daphne Lemelle, Harris County Community Services Director and a host of county community workers from varied agencies were present to share their expertise enabling residents to get help for their houses, the services they need to recover from Hurricane Harvey.

Harris County Project Recovery-Harvey is for homeowners outside Houston to apply for home repair, reconstruction or reimbursement.

JUDGE LINA HIDALGO announces the start of the Recovery program, as Malcolm Barrett and Adrian Garcia look on.

The new Harris County Judge Lina Hidalgo indicated that the county is giving out about $200 Million in this program, "Harvey was an especially difficult disaster because it got to the core of people's lives because it reached into their homes, in their housing. People's homes are anchors for them and their families. When people lost their homes and were forced to leave and live somewhere else, they were still forced to watch and wait until they could rebuild and return. That destroys and disrupts the rest of their lives and the fabric of our community."

"For the first time we are making a massive investment in housing around Harvey," said Hidalgo, indicating that the program was to be the largest investment a region has made in the area of housing repair.

"It helps us build a stronger community and a more resilient community in all of Harris County," the Judge concluded.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Adrian Garcia asked folks to get in touch with their representatives, "I will ask you to do one thing. Whenever you get hold of your members of Congress or representatives, any one of them, let them know it is unconscionable that in an area like Harris County, where we know Mother Nature so well, she visits us on a regular basis, we are no strangers to flooding. But, we don't have to reinvent the wheel over and over, since the government ought to have a good plan in place."

He encouraged those needing help with housing to get in touch with www.harrisrecovery.org and fill out the application as soon as possible.

"Know that we share your frustration and that we would rather have to get things done sooner rather than later," said Garcia.

An intake location is in Crosby, that location is located at 14,700 FM 2100 Suite A and B. The facility is open from 8 until 6 Monday through Friday and 9 to 3 on Saturday.

Arkema faces new charges

CROSBY – According to Harris County District Attorney Kim Ogg a grand jury has indicted Arkema Inc. and Mike Keough, the company's vice president of logistics, on a felony charge of causing bodily injury to two sheriff's deputies by withholding critical information needed by first responders to protect themselves and the community from chemicals released when Arkema's Crosby Plant caught fire after Hurricane Harvey in 2017.

Said Ogg on April 10, "The facts show Arkema knew of the dangers, withheld vital information, and unleashed harm on first responders and the community. This felony indictment is a wake-up call to companies that would pollute our air and waterways, ignore best practices in safety, and put our communities at risk."

Rusty Hardin has been retained by Arkema as attorney and answered the charges on the company's website. "Harris County prosecutors are doubling down on an unprecedented and outrageous attempt to criminalize a natural disaster," Hardin said in the statement. "They have filed more charges trying to prosecute a company for

Rep. Hernandez updates news from the capitol

Rep. Hernandez with students and supporters after presenting House Bill 1602 to the House Committee on Public Education

Dear Friend,
With less than seven weeks remaining in the 86th Legislative Session, the Texas Capitol is growing increasingly busy! Committees are meeting twice a week, major pieces of legislation have passed at least one chamber of the Legislature, and negotiations on major policy topics such as property tax reduction, public school finance, and the final passage of our state's biennial budget are ongoing.

The past two weeks have been particularly busy for our policy agenda! I wanted to provide you an update on our legislative package's progress as we reach mid-April. As always, if ever I can be of assistance or answer any questions, do not hesitate to call my office at (512) 463-0614.

Fire breaks out in garage at George Foreman’s house

HUFFMAN, Texas – The Harris County Fire Marshal's Office is investigating a fire that broke out at former professional boxer George Foreman's home last Sunday night in Huffman.

According to officials, the fire began in the garage, reportedly in a golf cart by the back wall. Crews were able to keep it from spreading to the rest of the home.

There were at least 40 vehicles in the garage, where the fire started, but none of them were damaged. There were people inside the house at the time of the fire, but everyone managed to get out safely. We don't know if Foreman was home himself or who saw the fire and called 911.

Foreman sent out a tweet after the fire writing, "Don't worry all is well. Dogs are barking and I don't mean my feet. Thanks to all the firefighters. Huffman, Houston, New Caney, Atascocita."

Judge Bates speaks to Friends of Crosby Library

the Act of God that was Hurricane Harvey. We can only conclude that with a May trial date looming, prosecutors realize they can't prove the previous charges and are grasping at straws. This is a political prosecution in search of a theory. Many citizens, businesses and even Harris County courthouses have still not recovered from the unexpected disaster that Harvey was. Yet the DA's office persists in trying to place criminal blame on Arkema and its employees despite their remarkable and heroic efforts amid the six feet of water no one predicted.

The Harris County Flood Control District concluded that in the area of Arkema's Crosby plant, Harvey was a 5,000- to 20,000-year rainfall event. That our county prosecutor persists in desperately seeking a way to criminally blame a company for the ravages of this storm should give us all pause. Arkema stands by its employees and will fight this unwarranted political action."

The new charges came after an indictment eight months earlier for release of toxic chemicals after Hurricane Harvey, naming Arkema CEO Richard Rowe and plant manager Leslie Comardelle. They were charged with reckless emission of an air contaminant under the Texas Water Code. That trial is to begin May 20.

These criminal charges coincide with lawsuits filed against the company by first responders. Residents were evacuated after Hurricane Harvey for a distance of 1.5 miles.

Students with Autism Nurtured in Small Classes with Behavioral Curriculum in HCDE Special Schools

(April is National Autism Awareness Month. Autism now affects one in 59 children and greatly varies from person to person. Children with autism do progress; early intervention is key according to the National Autism Association.)

When John Clark learned that his son with autism would be placed in a special school to deal with his behavior issues, he was dumbfounded, then upset. The father of 9-year-old Hunter hired an advocate to represent his son. By the time he toured Academic and Behavior School East, a special school for children with behavior and intellectual challenges, he was already looking into private schools for his son. Upon meeting principal Keith Oliphant and his staff and walking the hallways, he began to issue apologies.

"If every school could be run like this one, they would be in a lot better shape," said Clark. Since Hunter was placed in Harris County Department of Education's AB School East this year by his home school district, the Clarks have seen a transformation in the independence of their third-grader. He engages in conversation in restaurants and talks to neighbors.

Instead of banging a water bottle on the table to show he's disgruntled, he says: "Daddy, I'm not happy."

Autism is a bio-neurological developmental disability that generally appears before age 3, when Hunter was diagnosed. Children with autism usually have difficulties in verbal and non-verbal communication, social interactions and leisure or planned activities. It is diagnosed four times more often in boys than girls.

Harris County Department of Education has two specialty schools called AB School West and East to serve children with autism, behavioral disorders and other significant physical and emotional needs. The schools use Boy's Town curriculum to promote positive behavior and dismiss the negative.

Each of the 104 students currently attending AB School East is assigned an individualized education plan and benefits from small classrooms with a low, student-to-teacher ratio. Children are sent to the special schools through a district contractual agreement with a goal of returning to the home school district.

"We like having Hunter here, but our job is to get him to be independent and equipped with the skills he needs to be successful to return to his home school," said AB East Principal Oliphant.

When Hunter goes back to his school in La Porte Independent School District next September, he will be equipped with improved social and academic skills or habits.

"I've seen his academics improve," said Clark. "Hunter still struggles and will resist homework like any kids, but before he would throw a fit. He sighs but has learned that this is what we have to do. Homework is first."

Parent Flobert Tiam, father to Kyle, says his son was diagnosed with autism and ADHD and has severe mood swings. He came to AB School West in 2016. He is thankful for the basic things his son has learned to do now like eat at the table, help dress himself and listen to instructions. He has this advice for parents:

"I would tell parents to get involved with a forum for parents of autism in order to have support," Tiam said. "Consider a specialized school. These children need special attention."

"When they feel that love, I think these children are able to do more."

North Shore Senior High Student Receives $30,000 Scholarship

Paulina Perales, middle, receives $30,000 scholarship from ACE Mentor Program of America.

Galena Park ISD would like to congratulate Paulina Perales, North Shore Senior High School senior, for being selected to receive a $30,000 CMiC Software Allen Berg Scholarship from the ACE Mentor Program of America, Inc..

The ACE Mentor Program mentors high school students and inspires them to pursue careers in architecture, construction and engineering. Each team at ACE is made up of 15-25 students and their industry mentors. The teams are set up to emulate an actual design team, with students being guided through a mock design project with their team architect, engineer and construction management mentors. Mentors guide the students as they work towards a final project, introducing them to careers, industry vocabulary and various roles companies play in the construction industry. At the end of the year, all of the teams gather for a final presentation night, where they present their designs.

ACE not only engages sponsors and volunteer mentors to expose students to real-world opportunities, it financially supports each student's continued success through scholarships and grants. To this date, ACE has awarded over $15 million in scholarships to promising participants.

"I am so proud of myself for all of these years in ACE, all of the work I have shown to my mentors," Paulina Perales said. "I have grown so much through this program and now I see all of the true blessings that come along with hardwork."

Congratulations, Paulina!

Senate approves limit on property tax rate hikes

(Austin) Local taxing entities would have less room to raise property taxes before they have to ask voters for approval under a bill passed by the Senate on Monday. Under current law, school districts, cities, counties and other special taxing entities can raise taxes as much as eight percent in a year before voters can petition to hold a tax ratification or "rollback" election. This is too high, says Houston Senator Paul Bettencourt. He said average property tax bills have increased in the Dallas area by 55 percent over the last five years, 43 percent in Harris county over that same time, and it's like that across the state. Bettencourt says that too many people are being priced out of their homes by skyrocketing tax bills. "Taxpayers can't take it any more," he said. "It's a growth curve that's by any measure two or three times faster than their ability to pay." Bettencourt's bill, SB 2, would lower the rollback rate and implement a number of reforms to the process. Under SB2 the rollback rate would fall from 8 to 3.5 percent for counties, cities and most other taxing entities. For local school property taxes, which make up more than half of most tax bills, the rate would decrease to 2.5 percent. Property values from structures built in the last year wouldn't count against the cap, nor would costs related to indigent healthcare and legal defense. Rather than requiring voters to petition for enough signatures to trigger an tax ratification election, the question would be placed on the November ballot automatically if a taxing entity exceeds the rollback rates. These provisions would not immediately apply to taxing jurisdictions with less than $15 million in annual collections, but would require an election in May of 2020 asking voters in those jurisdictions if they want to opt in. This rollback provision has been controversial, but the bill contains a number of widely agreed-upon provisions intended to increase transparency and taxpayer agency in the property tax process. The bill would create an online portal that would provide a wealth of tax information for property owners, who could search their address to see relevant statistics including property value, number and names of entities levying taxes, and rate growth. It would enhance public posting requirements for tax hearings and would establish a dedicated position within each county to ensure that local taxing jurisdictions comply with the online portal and posting requirements. Some statutory definitions would change to make them more clear to taxpayers and voters. What is now known as the effective tax rate, that rate at which the entity would earn the exact same amount of revenue as in the previous year, would be renamed to the "no-new-revenue" tax rate. It would also change the term "rollback rate" to "voter-approved rate" The bill also includes a number of reforms to the appraisal appeal process, whereby homeowners can protest the value of their home before an appraisal review board. If a property owner believes that his or her property was overvalued, leading to a higher property tax bill, they can challenge the value. This process was frequently criticized during interim hearings on property tax reform, with members of the public testifying that the appraisal review boards are rife with conflicts of interest, hostile to taxpayer interests and unresponsive to property owner complaints. SB 2 contains a number of reforms to this process including directing the state comptroller to develop uniform standards for appraisal processes and would require that all appraisal districts abide by them. It would prohibit protest hearings from taking place at inconvenient times. Any decisions by a review board would be binding on a majority vote, rather than a unanimous vote as required by some districts. "With the attention on many, many appraisal reforms as well, I believe that this is a balanced package," said Bettencourt. "It looks at the needs of rural Texas, as well as urban. More importantly, it looks at the needs of taxpayers all across the state." The bill now heads to the House for consideration.

TEXAS SENATE NEWS By Richard Lee

Top officeholders join together in push for funding solution

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling

AUSTIN — Gov. Greg Abbott, Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick and House Speaker Dennis Bonnen on April 10 released a joint statement promoting a twofold method for the 86th Texas Legislature to curb property tax increases across the state. "Texans are fed up with skyrocketing property taxes. At the beginning of the legislative session, the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker laid out an agenda for property tax relief through the passage of Senate Bill 2 and House Bill 2 to limit property tax growth," the state's top officeholders said. SB 2 and HB 2, the not-yet-approved property tax reform bills, would reduce the revenue growth increment used for determination of the rollback tax rate from 8.0 percent to 2.5 percent for taxing units other than small taxing units unless the voters in a small taxing unit election decide to opt-in to the proposed new voter-approved tax rate procedure. The goal of both pieces of legislation is to reduce tax revenues for local taxing units and increase costs to the state through revised formulas for education funding. Abbott, Patrick and Bonnen also pushed lawmakers to pass legislation that would allow Texans to vote to offset local property tax revenue by increasing local sales taxes by a penny. "We are introducing a sales tax proposal to buy down property tax rates for all Texas homeowners and businesses, once Senate Bill 2 or House Bill 2 is agreed to and passed by both chambers," they said in the joint statement. "If the one-cent increase in the sales tax passes, it will result in billions of dollars in revenue to help drive down property taxes in the short and long term." Senate and House members of both political parties have expressed reluctance to cede local control in their districts to tax revenue-generating proposals coming from Austin. Another dimension is that a club-like Senate tradition requires at least three-fifths, or 19, of the body's 31 members to agree to bring a measure to the floor for debate. Patrick, who presides over the Senate, reportedly last week was entertaining the possibility of breaking with precedent by allowing the tax reform proposal to come to the floor with only 16 votes. There could be enough agreement among the body's Republican members to fall in line with Patrick's wishes. As the possibility of property tax caps and a sales tax tradeoff simmers in the Senate, passage is harder to predict in the majority-Republican but not-so-collegial House. Differences in the House and Senate versions of the tax reform bill would have to be reconciled in a conference committee before returning to the full bodies for final approval. Budget bill to conference Lawmakers' constitutionally mandated job is to pass a state budget. As always, it's a messy process to do that. House Bill 1, the state budget bill for fiscal years 2020 and 2021, was referred to a House-Senate conference committee on April 11 after the House refused to concur with Senate amendments to the bill. Speaker Bonnen named as conferees House Appropriations Committee Chair John Zerwas, R-Richmond, and Reps. Greg Bonnen, R-Friendswood; Sarah Davis, R-West University Place; Oscar Longoria, D-Mission; and Armando Walle, D-Houston. Senate conferees likely will be named by Lt. Gov. Patrick this week.

Sales tax holiday is set Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar on April 11 reminded Texans they may purchase certain items tax-free during the state's sales tax holiday for emergency preparation supplies. The sales tax holiday is scheduled for April 27-29. "While we can't know in advance when the next flood, tornado or hurricane may strike, we can make sure our families, homes and businesses have the supplies they need to face these and other emergencies," Hegar said. Items covered by the tax holiday include, for example: - Household batteries, fuel containers and flashlights priced at less than $75; - Hurricane shutters and emergency ladders priced at less than $300; and - Portable generators priced at less than $3,000. Tax revenue is distributed. Comptroller Hegar on April 10 announced his agency would send cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose taxing districts $705.3 million in local sales tax allocations for April. The amount is 8.4 percent more than distributed for the month of April 2018. The allocations are based on sales made in February by businesses that report tax monthly.

Governor Abbott: Passage of Senate Bill 2

AUSTIN – April 15, 2019 – Governor Greg Abbott today released the following statement after the Senate passed Senate Bill 2 to reform property taxes: "Today the Texas Senate took action to deliver on the promise of reining in skyrocketing property taxes. Thanks to the leadership of Lt. Governor Patrick and Senator Bettencourt, meaningful property tax reform is one step closer to becoming a reality. I look forward to continuing to work with Speaker Bonnen, Chairman Burrows and the entire legislature to provide lasting property tax relief for all Texans."

CHARLOTTE'S WEB

Use Your Gifts

Perhaps you have heard the story about a discovery when an elderly woman passed away. As her children went through her belongings, they discovered special gifts she had received through the years, yet had put away to use for a special occasion. They found a delicate camisole she saved for the perfect occasion. They found a ring that had been given to her yet she put it up for special occasions. They found placemats and special dishes she stored for a special occasion, yet she passed away with these things never being used. They were saddened that they had given her gifts that were never used.

I believe each of us are given individual gifts to be used to make life better not only for ourselves but for others who come into contact with us. The gifts range from being able to teach a young person how to change a tire or make a pan of cornbread. It could be something such as teaching a young person how to fish. There are gifts which we have that can held an older person by mowing their yard or planting flowers in their yard. Perhaps you have found yourself several states away from your family but with the upcoming Easter holiday, you have a desire to cook a large meal. Go through your phone book and find a single parent family that you could cook for and invite to your home.

Maybe you are not someone who has time to commit to a mentoring type relationship weekly, but do you have time once a month? Or as needed? Just recently I had an elderly community member with a plumbing issue and he could not afford to hire a plumber, but there was a man in the neighborhood who knew enough to help him avoid a $700 bill. Last week, there was an elderly woman in the community who mentioned she has no transportation to the grocery store and needed food for herself as well as for her cats. I mentioned it and one neighbor ordered her some cat food and had it shipped to her home. Another neighbor went to the store and picked up a few groceries that the 86 year old can safely prepare for herself.

I ran into a man over the weekend who shared that he is an electrician with his own business. He asked me to keep his business card in the event that something comes up that he can assist with. Another man who does construction and renovations sent me his number and offered to use his gift to help senior citizens who need assistance.

Sometimes it is just a note of encouragement being handwritten to someone in the hospital or in the military that arrives just in time and boosts the spirits of someone. Each of us have a gift or two that we can share. We also have an obligation to use them so that we do not lose them. In the event that you are looking for a place to serve, reach out and I will help you get plugged in.

ASK DIAMOND JIM

Diamond Jim: " How is natural yellow gold made into white or rose color gold?"

Gold is a chemical element with the symbol Au (from Latin: aurum) and the atomic number 79. In its purest form, it is a bright, slightly reddish yellow, dense, soft, malleable and ductile metal. Gold is commonly formed into bars or coin for use in monetary exchange. Gold is the most malleable of all metals; a single gram can be beaten into a sheet of 1 square meter, and an ounce into 300 square feet. Gold leaf can be beaten thin enough to become transparent. The transmitted light appears greenish blue, because gold strongly reflects yellow and red. Such semi-transparent sheets also strongly reflect infrared light, making them useful as infrared (radiant heat) shields in visors of heat-resistant suits, and in sun-visors for spacesuits. Gold is a good conductor of heat and electricity and reflects infrared radiation strongly.

White Gold

White gold is an alloy of gold and at least one white metal, usually nickel, manganese or palladium. Like yellow gold, the purity of white gold is given in karats. A common white gold formulation consists of 90 wt.% gold and 10 wt.% nickel. Copper can be added to increase malleability.

The strength of gold–nickel–copper alloys is caused by formation of two phases, a gold-rich Au–Cu, and a nickel-rich Ni–Cu, and the resulting hardening of the material. The alloys used in jewelry industry are gold–palladium–silver and gold–nickel–copper–zinc. Palladium and nickel act as primary bleaching agents for gold; zinc acts as a secondary bleaching agent to attenuate the color of copper.

The nickel used in some white gold alloys can cause an allergic reaction when worn over long periods (also notably on some wrist-watch casings). This reaction, typically a minor skin rash, occurs in about one out of eight people and because of this, many countries do not use nickel in their white gold formulations.

Rose, red, and pink gold

Rose gold is a gold and copper alloy widely used for specialized jewelry. Rose gold, also known as pink gold and red gold, was popular in Russia at the beginning of the nineteenth century, and was also known as Russian gold although this term is now obsolete. Rose gold jewelry is becoming more popular in the 21st century and is commonly used for wedding rings, bracelets, and other jewelry.

Although the names are often used interchangeably, the difference between red, rose, and pink gold is the copper content: the higher the copper content, the stronger the red coloration. Pink gold uses the least copper, followed by rose gold, with red gold having the highest copper content

Up to 15% zinc can be added to copper-rich alloys to change their color to reddish yellow or dark yellow.

During ancient times, due to impurities in the smelting process, gold frequently turned a reddish color. This is why many Greco-Roman texts, and even many texts from the Middle Ages, describe gold as "red".

Rose gold

Also known as "Crown Gold".

The highest karat version of rose gold is also known as crown gold, which is 22 karat. Eighteen karat red gold may be made of 25% copper and 75% gold. For 18 karat rose gold, typically about 4% silver is added to 75% gold and 21% copper to give a rose color. 14 karat red gold is often found in the Middle East and contains 41.67% copper.

High-end musical flutes are very commonly made of solid rose gold, the most common alloy being 14K.

Galena Park ISD participates in Texas Reads One Book

Galena Park ISD students participate in Texas Reads One Book program.

On Monday, April 15, Galena Park ISD third graders joined Dallas Cowboys head coach, Jason Garrett, as he kicked off Texas Reads One Book with his videotaped reading of the first chapter of Friendship According to Humphrey.

Every student received their own copy of the book to read at home or in the classroom. Galena Park ISD encourages families to pick up where Coach Garrett left off, reading a chapter from the book each night.

There will be daily trivia questions, discussions, and other activities in the classroom to ensure that reading takes center stage in the home, school and community throughout the duration of the program.

The Texas Reads One Book program's goal is to encourage family involvement in the reading process and boost student engagement with books.

This estimated total tax rate is derived from projections obtained from the District’s financial advisor and the appraisal district and is provided without any assurance that such projections will be realized. At the time that bonds are issued, the actual total tax rate will depend upon, among other factors, prevailing interest rates, the assessed value of real property in the District, the availability of the Permanent School Fund Guaranty and general market conditions.

Accordingly, actual tax rates, interest rates, maturity dates, aggregate outstanding indebtedness and interest on such debt will vary and will be established after the bonds are issued. To the extent of any conflict between this subsection and other terms of this Election Order, such other terms control.
