Goose Creek CISD recognizes retirees and Teachers of the Year

By: Susan Passmore

Goose Creek CISD recognized retirees and Teachers of the Year at a recent gala at Ross S. Sterling High School. The Theme was "100 Years of Class - Through the Decades" in honor of the 100th anniversary of Goose Creek CISD. The RSS String Quartet, under the direction of Camille Gates, provided music. After the program, guests enjoyed a reception and took photos in front of the  $100^{\rm th}$  Anniversary Quilt, which features a quilt square created by each campus, finished by Sandy Martin, retired GCCISD employee.

Dr. Randal O'Brien welcomed guests and presented a brief history of Goose Creek CISD. Dr. Melissa Duarte announced the retirees, and O'Brien and Pete Pape, board president, presented each one with a clock and a plaque.

The highlight of the event was the naming of the District Teachers of the Year. Anna West from Victoria Walker Elementary, was announced as the District Elementary Teacher of the Year, and Angie Johnson from Goose Creek Memorial High School was named District Secondary Teacher of the Year. Kristen Curette from Community Resource Credit Union presented the two teachers with iPads. Joe Grabo, James Marion and Tesla McCawley, representing the Bayway Auto Group, specifically Bayshore Chrysler Jeep Dodge and Ram, presented each one with a cap and a key to a car for them to drive during the summer months.

The James Becker Thomson Special Education Teacher Kendricka (Kiki) Moore from Goose Creek Memorial High School was recognized by Janna Crow, director of special education. The award was established by Dr. Richard Thomson, a retired ophthalmologist, to honor his late brother James, who benefited from special education services. Moore is the 44th recipient.

This session, I had the privilege of serving as the Vice-Chair on the Senate Select Committee on Ports. I valued this role greatly as the Port of Houston is one of the busiest ports in the country and is an integral part of Senate District 6. Our work on this committee will ensure that the port continues to thrive economically.

I passed S.B. 1915 which will separate the governance of the Board of Pilot Commissioners for Harris County Ports from that of the Port Commissioners of the Houston Port Authority.

In March, the initial fire and following environmental damage at the In-tercontinental Terminals Co. facility in Deer Park drew my attention to the lack of regulatory measures surrounding similar facilities. Through town halls, various meetings and a special Ports Committee hearing in the Capitol, my office worked with TCEQ and other agencies to discuss needed changes.

I advocated for additional funding for three mobile monitoring units and pushed for the TCEQ to take a harder look at the safety standards being up-held. From this funding, the agency received funds needed to obtain all three mobile units as well as a Scanning Electron Microscope for more accurate air readings I will continue to work with various agencies and review the regulatory standards at chemical facilities similar to ITC during the interim.

Harris County Attorney Ryan opposes EPA emissions "loophole"

Friday, June 28, 2019 – Harris County Attorney Vince Ryan today filed a formal letter of opposition to a proposed Environmental Protection Agency rule that would allow companies in Texas to avoid civil penalties for polluting the air during so-called Startup Shutdown, or Maintenance (SSM) activities.

Ryan is objecting to an EPA proposal to withdraw a 2015 finding that Texas's plan did not comply with the federal Clean Air Act because of state rules that provide companies with an affirmative defense for excess air emissions that occur during SSM events.

"Texas's regulations have a loophole through which facilities can exceed permit emissions limits during upsets and unplanned SSM events without fear of being held fully accountable under the law," said County Attorney Ryan.

"This loophole not only harms nearby communities but also endangers first responders, including County employees, who respond to SSM events," he said.

In his letter to the EPA, County Attorney Ryan laid out facts that led to his opposition:

Houston has some of the worst air in the nation and the eight county nonattainment area consistently fails to meet federal health based ozone standards.

Communities around facilities with SSM events in Harris County are primarily low income, low resource, linguistically isolated communities of color and are especially impacted by these events.

The EPA is legally required by the Clean Air Act to close this loophole and correctly required Texas to do so in 2015.

Ryan also points out that the community impact of these SSM events continues to linger, as residents impacted by these pollutants released into the air often have to shoulder the cost of medical care, compounded by the strain of missed days at work and school. Instead of affirmative defenses, Ryan believes polluters should face full enforcement under the environmental laws.

"I urge EPA not to finalize its proposed rule and instead withdraw the proposal," said County Attorney Ryan. "SSM events have real adverse health impacts on communities around industrial facilities and allowing them to occur without penalty will only prolong and exacerbate those impacts."

Lieutenant governor names members to redistricting panel

AUSTIN — Lt. Gov.
Dan Patrick on June 28
released the names of his appointees to the Texas Legislature's 2021
Redistricting
Committee.

Patrick, who presides over the 31-member state Senate, named Sen. Joan Huffman, R-Houston, as chair of the committee, and Sen. Juan "Chuy" Hinojosa, D-McAllen, as vice chair. He also named 13 more Senate members to the committee, including Sens. Carol Alvarado, D-Houston; Paul Bettencourt, R-Houston; Dawn Buckingham, R-Lakeway; Donna Campbell, R-New Braunfels; Pete Flores, R-Pleasanton; Kelly Hancock, R-North Richland Hills; Bryan Hughes, R-Mineola; Eddie Lucio Jr., D-Brownsville; Jose Menendez, D-San Antonio; Robert Nichols, R-Jacksonville; Angela Paxton, R-McKinney; Charles Perry, R-Lubbock; Kirk Watson, D-Austin; Royce West, D-Dallas; and John Whitmire, D-Houston.

In January, Texas House Speaker Dennis Bonnen, R-Angleton, named 15 members to the House Redistricting Committee, with jurisdiction that includes preparations for the redistricting process. Those members include: Rep. Phil King, R-Weatherford, chair; Rep. Chris Turner, D-Grand Prairie, vice chair; and Reps. Sheryl Cole, D-Austin; Matt Krause, R-Fort Worth; Lyle Larson R-San Antonio; Jeff Leach, R-Plano; Ben Leman, R-Brenham; Ina Minjarez D-San Antonio; Joe Moody, D-El Paso; Chris Paddie, R-Marshall; "Four" Price, R-Amarillo; Toni Rose, D-Dallas; Senfronia Thompson, D-Houston; Armando Walle, D-Houston; and James White, R-Hillister.

Patrick and Bonnen have not set a date or dates for the committees to meet jointly or separately.

In addition to redrawing Texas House, Texas Senate and U.S. congressional districts, the Legislature also is required to review the 15 State Board of Education districts for any necessary redrawing of district boundaries.

SCOTUS ruling in

play
As Texas' bipartisan
2021 Redistricting
Committee goes about its work, a U.S.
Supreme Court ruling
released June 25 is sure to stimulate discussion
during the process.

In the ruling, Chief Justice John Roberts, in writing the majority opinion, remarked that federal courts are unable to decide cases of partisan gerrymandering. "We conclude that partisan gerrymandering claims present political questions beyond the reach of the federal courts. Federal judges have no license to reallocate political power between two major political parties, with no plausible grant of authority in the Constitution, and no legal standards to limit and direct their decisions," Roberts wrote.

So, with the U.S.
Supreme Court and lower federal courts no longer the court of last resort for plaintiffs with voting rights appeals based on allegations of partisan.

gerrymandering, the weight of the job of the redistricting committee increases.

Solicitor general estifies

In other news related to redistricting and voting, Texas Solicitor General Kyle Hawkins on June 25 testified in Washington, D.C., before the U.S. House Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights and Civil Liberties.

The panel heard testimony on continuing constitutional problems with the U.S. Voting Rights Act since the U.S Supreme Court's landmark 2013 ruling in a case alleging racial gerrymandering. The high court's ruling in the case, Shelby County (Alabama) v. Holder, struck down a provision in the act that required Texas and certain other states to seek preclearance from the  $\,$ U.S. Justice Department or a federal court before making changes to voting laws.

In concluding his testimony, Hawkins said, "As Congress revisits the Voting Rights Act, it must adhere to the constitutional principles the Supreme Court articulated in Shelby County that limit the power of the federal government to impede on fundamental principles of federalism and disturb the coequal sovereignty of the states".

Revenue total comes in

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar on July 2 announced state sales tax revenue totaled $2.86 billion in June, an amount 3.3 percent more than the amount reported for the month of June 2018.

Also, total sales tax revenue for the three months ending in June 2019 was up 5.1 percent compared to the same period a year ago. Sales tax is the largest source of state funding for the state budget, accounting for 57 percent of all tax collections, Hegar said.

 $Houston,\,TX-The$

accounts and images emanating from our southern border are horrific and unbecoming of a country regarded as the last best hope of the world. Indeed, these experiences were relayed in shocking and graphic terms in a recent report of the Inspector General of the Department of Homeland Security, which found that migrants are being held in dangerous conditions in overcrowded facilities. The conditions have become so dire that, according to a new report, the situation is described as a "ticking time bomb" that merits our immediate action. For example, official reports have found that 51 women were being held in a facility designed to house 40 juveniles. Meanwhile, 71 men are held in a cell designated for 41 men. Indeed certain cells are so crowded that some migrants are being forced to stand for days at a time. Some migrants are standing on toilets to secure breathing room. Meanwhile, the toll on the youngest migrants is compelling. Some children 7 and under have been in facilities for upwards of two weeks and more, and some children are forced to wear soiled clothes Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee, a senior member of the House Committee on Homeland Security and a former Chair of the Border & Maritime Subcommittee will travel to these facilities on an official visit of the Homeland Security Committee to assess the situation and gather information. pursuant to her oversight responsibilities as a member of the United States Congress.

ASK DIAMOND JIM

Diamond Jim: "What is Sapphire?"

Sapphire is a gemstone variety of the mineral corundum, an aluminum oxide. It is typically blue in color, but natural "fancy" sapphires also occur in yellow, purple, orange, and green colors; "partsapphires" show two or more colors. The only color which sapphire cannot be is red - as red colored corundum is called ruby, another corundum variety.

Trace amounts of elements such as iron, titanium, chromium, copper, or magnesium present during formation are responsible for the color of a sapphire. Commonly, natural sapphires are cut and polished into gemstones and worn in jewelry. They also may be created synthetically in laboratories for industrial or decorative purposes in large crystal boules.

Because of the  $\begin{array}{c} remarkable\ hardness\ of\\ sapphires-9\ on\ the \end{array}$ Mohs scale (the third hardest mineral, after diamond at 10 and moissanite at 9.5) sapphires are also used in some non-ornamental applications, such as infrared optical components, high-durability windows, and wristwatch crystals / movement bearings. Sapphire is the birthstone for September and the gem of the 45th anniversary. Sapphire is one of the three gem-varieties of corundum, the other two being ruby (defined as corundum in a shade of red) and padparadscha (a pinkish orange variety). Although blue is the best-known sapphire color, they occur in other colors, including gray and black, and they can be colorless

Significant sapphire deposits are found in Eastern Australia. Thailand, Sri Lanka, China (Shandong), Madagascar, East Africa, and in North America in a few locations, mostly in Montana. Sapphire and rubies are often found in the same geological setting. Every sapphire mine produces a wide range of quality - and origin is not a guarantee of quality. For sapphire, Kashmir receives the highest premium although Burma, Sri Lanka, and Madagascar also produce large quantities of fine quality gems. The cost of natural sapphires varies depending on their color, clarity, size, cut, and overall quality.

Color in gemstones breaks down into three components: hue, saturation, and tone. Hue is most commonly understood as the 'color" of the gemstone. Saturation refers to the vividness or brightness of the hue, and tone is the lightness to darkness of the hue. Blue sapphire exists in various mixtures of its primary (blue) and secondary hues, various tonal levels (shades) and at various levels of saturation (vividness)

Blue sapphires are evaluated based upon the purity of their primary hue. Purple, violet, and green are the most common secondary hues found in blue sapphires. Violet and purple can contribute to the overall beauty of the color, while green is considered to be distinctly negative. Blue sapphires with up to 15% violet or purple are generally said to be of fine quality. Gray is the normal saturation modifier or mask found in blue sapphires. Gray reduces the saturation or brightness of the hue, and therefore has a distinctly negative

The color of fine blue sapphires may be described as a vivid medium dark violet to purplish blue where the primary blue hue is at least 85% and the secondary hue no more than 15%, without the least admixture of a green secondary hue or a gray mask.

Sapphires of other colors

Sapphires in colors other than blue are called "fancy sapphires" or "particolored" sapphires. Fancy sapphires are often found in yellow, orange, green sapphires, brown, purple and violet hues.

Parti-colored sapphires are those stones which exhibit two or more colors within a single stone. Australia is the largest source of particolored sapphires however they are not commonly used in mainstream jewelry and remain relatively unknown. Particolored sapphires cannot be created synthetically and only occur naturally. Colorless sapphires are sometimes used as diamond substitutes in jewelry.

Pink sapphires occur in shades from light to dark pink, and deepen in color as the quantity of chromium increases. The deeper the pink color the higher their monetary value. In the United States, a minimum color saturation must be met to be called a ruby, otherwise the stone is referred to as a pink sapphire.

CHARLOTTES WEB

Appreciate the Community

One day last month. I noticed two ladies picked up trash along the explanades between Woodforest and Wallisville on Uvalde Road. The next day, I saw them again, but on Woodforest between Uvalde and Normandy. Not only were they removing all of the plastic signs but picking up the trash that had been thrown out of passing cars. made a mental note to find out more about who they were and why they were cleaning the landscape.

The following week, they were out there again. I noticed they get out early in the day, usually by 7 a.m. and diligently work to clean the esplanades daily. By 9 a.m. they are gone as is all of the trash. Many people do not realize it is a crime to post these plastic signs on public property. There are fines which can be issued, but more importantly. they clutter the roadways. I have seen people slowing down to copy down a number or to take a picture of the sign and almost cause a wreck.

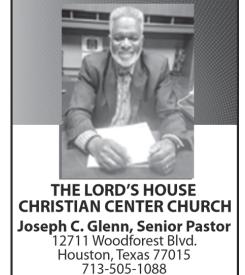

So early on one Friday, I stopped to ask the one lady about their work. There was a language barrier but she wrote down a phone number for me to call. I had to get the assistance of a coworker to find out more. Apparently, Woodforest Civic Association has partnered with the Harris County Water District 051 to help beautify the community. The Water District is working on a lighting project, which frees up some funding so that the Civic Association is able to hire a local landscaping company to have the esplanades cleaned weekly.

In addition, if you traveled around Woodforest on July 4th you most likely noticed the large beautiful American flags which had been strategically placed along the entrances of the Woodforest subdivision. Even though several of these flags came up missing, Woodforest resident David Pope had spent the money to purchase the flags as well as the time and energy to display them to help beautiful the area. David is no stranger to most of us in the North Channel Area, as each year he decorates his home on Duncannon for a Winter Wonderland with Santa's Airport. Literally thousands of neighbors drive by, take pictures and most importantly, make memories. He does this on his own as a way of giving back to the community he loves. For those wanting to purchase a picture of their children with Santa, a nominal fee is charged but it barely covers the cost of the toys Santa gives away much less the cost of the electricity. Yet David does this out of love for his neighbors.

Look around the community, surely there is something you can do to help beautify the area. Maybe you cannot decorate the main streets for holidays, but I am sure you can find a way to help others who have these special projects in their hearts.

Truck plunges into San Jacinto River,

RESCUE WORKERS evaluate the situation on Thursday, as they decide how to find the missing truck drive and remove the trailer of the 18wheeler. The cab of the truck is completely under water and not seen in this view. Also note the red buoys marking the limits of the Waste Pits Superfund site, which is the land at the bottom of the photo.

ANOTHER TRUCK ACCIDENT is seen in this view, of an 18-wheeler that went over the side of the I-610 East Loop bridge over the Houston Ship Channel. The top of the arrow marks where the truck broke through the rail after swerving after hitting a car that cut in front of him. The bottom of the arrow shows where the truck landed on top of a chemical building at Huntsman Chemical, 150 below the bridge. The driver of the rig died pinned in his cab, as rescue workers tried to extract him.

bound lanes of the bridge after being sideswiped by another 18wheeler that did not stop. A deputy had come upon the scene, and was just getting the information when the second 18-wheeler struck the stopped car and plummeted over the rail into the river below.

The truck's cab and trailer were submerged under water, and authorities called on divers to search the waters for the missing truck driver. The HCSO Marine Unit, HazMat team, firefighters from Highlands and Crosby, and the Coast Guard helped in the search. Due to the muddy water and the restrictions caused by proximity to the Waste Pits Superfund site, the driver was not found until Friday, in the cab of the semi. He was identified by family as Steve Martinez, 60, of San Antonio.

Sheriff Gonzalez said the cab was buried in mud up to the windshield, and divers could not maneuver in the remaining space, and also had to keep wearing protective gear because of the nearby toxic waste pit material.

After finding the driver, authorities turned to the task of removing the truck from the river. They decid $ed\ it\ could\ not\ be\ done\ from$ land, and secured a salvage barge from Galveston with a heavy-lift crane for the work.

By Saturday afternoon the salvage work was completed, the truck was lifted from the river in three parts, and the scene had returned to a quiet state.

The location of this accident was just on the other side of the river channel from an accident that occured in May, when an 18wheeler struck the side of a car in the westbound lanes of the bridge as it was changing lanes. The collision sent the auto over the railing and through a gap between the eastbound and westbound lanes. The car landed on its roof on the riverbank, and a 4 year old child, Andrea Salas, was killed. She was not in a seat belt, authorities believe. Her parents did survive the fall with only minor injuries. The family was from Honduras, and in this country

only a short time.

Authorities cautioned that these accidents occured from excessive speed, unsafe distance between vehicles, unsafe lane changes, and distractions while driving.

that could be served by this park.

Garcia noted that the new park could revitalize the East Aldine area, and add value to the surrounding community. He has budgeted $4 million dollars for the park develop-ment, but hopes with matching grants and other sources to expand the work to as much as $8 million.

Also making the presentation were Reynaldo Guerra, who is director of Capital Projects for Pre-cinct 2, and landscape architect Tara Klein, of the firm Four&One.

Klein explained some of the features of the park design, including automo-bile access from the US59 frontage road, special recreational equipment designed for persons with disabilities or limited mobility, improvements to the existing equipment and park elements, and the promotion of the park as a county "Destination" Park.

Klein and Garcia emphasized that the park is in the early design stages, and encouraged residents to give the team input on their desires and needs. Questionnaires were distributed, but there is also a website to submit your thoughts, at: https:// www.surveymonkey.com/r/ 8TFDKN2.

Questions on the survey include whether you support improving Driver Park; how you get to the park; where you are coming from; your age group; do you have a disability yourself or someone close;

Amenities that were suggested for the park include a playground, splash pad, driveway improvements, walking and bike trails, fitness stations, pavilion for community events, open lawn, art and scupture, and restrooms.-
