‘Where Does It Stop?’: Erebia’s SIL urges Texas lawmakers to strengthen court oversight

By David Taylor

AUSTIN — Standing before a Texas House committee, Amber Burrough described a birthday celebration that became a painful reminder of the man her family lost.

Louis Erebia’s 15-year-old daughter should have been celebrating with a quinceañera, Burrough said. Instead, this weekend she broke down as relatives sang “Happy Birthday,” grieving a father who was shot and killed months earlier.

“If we were lucky, my brother would be at his outside influence or failures in local prosecution.

The North Channel Star identified London Hogan, Sr. as the man charged with murder in Erebia’s June 6 death. Hogan has also been charged with aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon and aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. A judge has denied him bond.

Erebia, 56, was killed after going to help recover his son’s stolen pickup, according to investigators. Authorities say Erebia and others tracked the truck by GPS before the encounter ended near Airline Drive and North Loop 610 in Houston. His family has described him as a devoted DAYTON, Texas — Oct. 2, 2026 — The Galena Park Yellow Jackets were shut out by the Dayton Broncos, 54-0, Friday in a District game at Dayton’s stadium.

Dayton scored seven touchdowns, using both its passing and running games to produce the victory during its homecoming game.

to compete throughout the game.

Galena Park junior quarterback Jacob Muro completed 5 of 13 passes for 41 yards. Junior running back Jamile Hurks, who has regularly produced more than 100 rushing yards in a game, was held to 54 yards by the Dayton defense.

The Yellow Jackets are competing in District 10-5A Division II, one of the region’s toughest districts which includes teams from across Region III.

Galena Park has 45 players on its roster, with 32 listed as sophomores or juniors. The team is scheduled to graduate 15 seniors this year.

The Yellow Jackets, now 1-5, will return home Friday, Oct. 9, for a homecoming district game against the Nederland Bulldogs. Nederland enters the matchup with a 3-2 record. Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m. at GPISD Stadium.

Hispanic Heritage Month Honoree Professor Ralph Lazo

By Allan Jamail

October 6, 2026 ~ Hispanic Heritage Month begins annually from September 15 thru October 15. For the past several years I’ve had the honor of bringing back the memories of a famous person of Hispanic heritage.

Teenager Ralph Lazo a true hero is my honoree this week, this young brave Hispanic teenager did what no one would do, HE STOOD UP FOR JUSTICE AND HAD HIMSELF IMPRISONED in order to bring attention to the cruel punishment of the incarcerated Japanese in America.

The Mexican American teenager spent two years on-purpose at the Japanese Manzanar Concentration Prison Camp in California protesting the injustice his friends were enduring. He wasn’t of Japanese descent, but he self incarcerated himself to give support to his Japanese friends.

Ralph Lazo was the only known non-spouse, non-Japanese American who voluntarily relocated to a Japanese American internment camp during World War II. His experience was Lazo, born in Los Angeles on November 3, 1924, was of Mexican-American and Irish American descent. His mother died when he and his sister were young, leaving them in the care of their father, who found work painting houses and murals.

As a Belmont High School student at age 17, Lazo learned that his Japanese American friends and neighbors were being forcibly removed as part of the Japanese American Interned husband, father of five, grandfather, youth baseball coach and community volunteer.

Burrough told the committee that her family believes the killing could have been prevented if the justice system had responded more forcefully to Hogan's previous offenses and alleged probation violations.

"London Hogan was the individual who pulled the trigger, but I blame the judicial system as well," she testified.

Hogan received five years of deferred-adjudication probation in 2024 after pleading guilty in an aggravated-assault case involving strangulation, according to court records cited in published reports. He was later arrested in Louisiana while on probation.

"Within less than a year, he was crossing state lines in Louisiana trying to smuggle $20,000 worth of dope into a correctional facility. And still, he was allowed to walk free in Harris County. Eight months later, they finally filed the motion to adjudicate, but nothing. He was given two days, two days for multiple attempts, multiple violations of probation, and within seven months he took my brother-in-law's life," she said. Burrough contended that authorities had repeated opportunities to hold him in custody before Erebia was killed.

Burrough invoked an earlier question from committee member Richard Peña Raymond about the consequences of repeated government failures.

"If things keep happening and people die, where does it stop?" she asked. "I am here as a representative of my family that is in mourning, my brother who can no longer speak and the citizens of Harris County."

Louis Erebia, 56 and his wife Amanda Erebia

Her testimony extended beyond her family's case. Burrough urged lawmakers to impose greater oversight on district attorneys, prosecutors and judges, arguing that accountability problems affect communities throughout Texas.

"We need oversight for our DAs. We need oversight for our judges," she said. "It's not just a Travis County situation. It's a situation that is universal across Texas."

Burrough also cited dismissal figures she attributed to Harris County's 339th District Court and questioned how many defendants whose cases were dismissed later committed new crimes. The figures and her interpretation of them were presented as part of her testimony.

"When you talk about the failures of just the 339th Court, Judge Bell, since 2021," she said "5,407 cases filed. She's dismissed 2,173 of those dismissals that our DA had to sign off on. There were 128 aggravated assaults on a family member, 116 aggravated assaults with a deadly weapon, 93 possessions of a firearm felony, 93 family violent assault cases felony and 40 aggravated assaults," Burrough listed. All dismissed.

"How many of those re-offended?" she asked. "How many of those have also had family members lose their lives? At what point does my brother-in-law's voice count for something?"

Burrough told lawmakers that Erebia spent Saturdays visiting the homes of students who had left school and encouraging them to return. Since his death, she said, a Little League field has been named in his honor and Woodland Acres Elementary School has dedicated a bench to him.

"But yet he's not here," she said. "He doesn't get a second chance."

The family is also seeking scrutiny of another person it believes assisted in the events surrounding Erebia's death. No additional murder charge had been announced at the time of Burrough's testimony, and the family's claims about another person's involvement remain allegations.

Burrough said the family had met with Harris County District Attorney Sean Teare a day before the Austin hearing to seek answers about the prosecution and possible additional accountability.

Outside the committee room, she said the family's advocacy would continue.

"All I can tell you is that we're not done," Burrough said in an interview. "We're going to continue fighting and advocating, not just because it was a preventable murder of Louis, but because there are so many citizens in Harris County that are still unprotected."

She closed her testimony by acknowledging that no change in law could return Erebia to his wife, children and grandchildren. But she told committee members that they could prevent another family from suffering the same loss.

"We're never going to get my brother-in-law back," Burrough said. "But you have the power to keep his voice going and make changes that stop other families from living through what we're living through."

NO-NEW-REVENUE TAX RATE	$1.05907 per $100
VOTER-APPROVAL TAX RATE	$1.14973 per $100

The no-new-revenue tax rate is the tax rate for the 2026 tax year that will raise the same amount of property tax revenue for City of Galena Park from the same properties in both the 2025 tax year and the 2026 tax year.

The voter-approval rate is the highest tax rate that City of Galena Park may adopt without holding an election to seek voter approval of the rate.

The proposed tax rate is not greater than the no-new-revenue tax rate. This means that City of Galena Park is not proposing to increase property taxes for the 2026 tax year.

A PUBLIC MEETING TO VOTE ON THE PROPOSED TAX RATE WILL BE HELD ON 10/20/2026 AT 6:00 PM AT the Baggett Community Center, 1302 Keene, Galena Park, Texas.

CHARLOTTE'S WEB

By Charlotte Jackson

Be Happy

Have you ever watched a toddler chasing the family dog? Have you ever seen the smile on a child's face as they went running into the arms of their parents after a long day of work? Surely you have smiled when you have witnessed grandparents holding a newborn baby. Happiness is one of those feelings that money cannot buy.

Recently while attending an event, I witnessed a gentleman making his way across the room to hug a friend he had not seen in years. You could tell even though it had been a long time, their friendship was real. The laughter and smiles were priceless. As they caught up on what had been happening in their lives, you could sense the happiness that was present.

I reflected on different people who I know who can see the good in everything. Life is always not easy for anyone, yet there are others who never are happy. If it is raining, they are grumbling that they just washed their car. If unexpected guests show up, they apologize for the way the house looks. If they just won the lottery, they are upset about the taxes they owe.

Even worse, is when someone disappoints them. I remember talking to an elected leader one night when I was working for the Houston Rockets. He was so upset that his young teenage son was more interested in learning to play the flute as well as golf, than he was about wanting to play football or pledge a fraternity. Years later, when his son graduated from college, the father was the first to brag on his son being admitted to a prestigious law school. I have seen some people be so excited about their child enjoying life that they did not mind if the student brought home countless friends to their small apartment. Happiness is a gift when people choose to focus on the good in life. The longer you live, the more you realize that good health, relationships, and laughter mean much more than having a certain job or position in the community. Some of the most miserable people I have known have moved up the corporate ladder at the expense of others. Many a spouse has endured the brunt of someone's anger or even those who thought they were friends have been humiliated by public jokes that were made by someone, who felt as if since they had a certain position, they could criticize others. I have known of some people who were so miserable they would tell you "You are nothing because you are not..." yet they were much worse off chasing titles or positions that those to which they were rude.

As we look around, most people will agree our world needs more kindness, more hugs, more laughter and certainly more happiness. I challenge you to decide today to be happy. Each night before you go to sleep, list three things that you are grateful for or three people that made you smile today. Wake up tomorrow and be happy.

ASK DIAMOND JIM

Diamond Jim: “How is the value of an opal determined?”

Individual opals can vary widely in appearance and quality. As diverse as snowflakes or fingerprints, each gem can differ noticeably.

There are three main aspects of an opal's quality:

- Color—Background color and play-of-color
- Pattern—Arrangement of play-of-color
- Clarity—Transparency and quantity of inclusions

HOW TO EVALUATE AN OPAL

Opal evaluation should be done under controlled lighting on a dark background. Rotating the opal against a background helps when you're determining its type and evaluating its play-of-color and cut.

There are five steps that professionals use when evaluating an opal:

1. Determine the type of opal.
2. Determine the ratio and quality of its play-of-color.
3. Determine the opal's transparency.
4. Determine the opal's clarity.
5. Evaluate the opal's cut.

OPAL COLORS

Opal hues can range across the spectrum. An opal might display a single color, two or three colors, or all the colors of the rainbow. Opal displays background color in addition to play-of-color. Background color—also called bodycolor—is caused by the suspension of tiny impurities within opal's silica spheres.

Opals are often divided into types based on background color. Even though there are many different categories for opals, here are the main types:

Black Opal

All other quality factors being equal, many buyers favor the dark background color of black opal. This is partly because play-of-color tends to stand out attractively against a dark background. The contrast of play-of-color to bodycolor makes black opals very popular. Additionally, black opals are considered to be the rarest (white opals are more common).

White Opal

An opal with a translucent to opaque white and other light color backgrounds (bodycolor) with play-of-color is called white opal.

Fire Opal

Fire opal is transparent to translucent with a bodycolor that is usually yellow, orange or red. This material, which might show play-of-color, is also known in the trade as "Mexican opal" or "Mexican fire opal".

Boulder Opal

Boulder opal is translucent to opaque opal with play-of-color within a host rock. Thin layers of opal exist within the host rock (called matrix). The opal is cut with the matrix attached and is part of the finished gem.

The revolt against tariffs

In 2016, Donald Trump’s support for tariffs helped propel him to a shocking electoral victory. In 2026, his tariff policy may help tank Republicans in the midterms. This turnabout counts as a surprise of Trump’s second term, and an unwelcome one for the president and his party.

During his political ascent in 2015-2016, Trump exploited issues where there was a disconnect between popular and elite opinion, and trade was prominent among them. His protectionism — expressed in pungent and excoriating terms — poached traditional Democratic ideological territory and appealed to the working-class voters that allowed him to crash the traditional Democratic “Blue Wall” states. In sheer political terms, what could go wrong? Well, nothing — until he got his way.

It turns out that Liberation Day was the beginning of the end for any appreciable political support for his tariff policy. The assumption has usually been that the politics of tariffs favor protectionism — the benefits are very visible and focused for specific sectors and businesses, so they will be highly committed to maintaining them, while the costs are widely dispersed among people who won’t care so much.

The logic here has been turned on its head, though. The costs felt by all the people with no direct stake in protectionism are tanking support for the tariffs. On top of this, there’s the fact that Trump won the second time promising to reduce prices, whereas import duties increase them. The Yale Budget Lab estimates the costs to households as about $1,000 a year. The shambolic and arbitrary rollout of the tariffs, as well as the dubious legal basis for many of them, hasn’t helped, either.

According to a poll that the libertarian Cato Institute conducted with Morning Consult, 74% of Americans say the tariffs increased the prices they pay, including 66% of Republicans. Fifty-three percent of the public says that the tariffs have weakened the economy, and 49% say they have hurt their quality of life. Regarding the latest trade spat with Canada, a Politico/Public First poll found that 56% of Americans think the tariffs against Canada were “wrong.” According to a CBS/YouGov survey, people prefer a candidate who opposes Trump’s tariffs over one who supports them, by 26 points.

Democratic Senate candidates are promising to reverse Trump’s tariffs, even the card-carrying protectionist Sherrod Brown is critical. And some Republican candidates in states with lots of trade with Canada have dissented from the trade war with Our Friendly Neighbor to the North.

The Midwest is a trouble spot for the GOP in the midterms, and it’s not hard to understand why. China cut its purchases of U.S. farm products in retaliation for Trump’s tariffs, and the farm sector has been slammed. Exports of wheat, cotton, beef and pork to China plummeted last year, and overall agricultural exports to China fell by 66%.

When you layer on top of this the price of diesel fuel jumping 80% and fertilizer increasing 15% because of the Iran war, it’s a formula for a revolt. The tariffs have led to a tangle a little more than a month before the election. Trying to address complaints about high grocery prices, the administration wants to relent on beef tariffs to help consumers, but farmers — hurt by other tariffs — are balking at a measure that will reduce prices at a time when they are struggling.

One way or another, someone is going to be unhappy. Even if Trump’s theory of the tariffs is correct — that higher import duties will lead to re-industrialization — the policy involves immediate disruption and increased costs in exchange for a protectionism-driven build-out that will take years to be fully achieved.

Long before then — indeed, by January — an opposition congressional majority hostile to the president and his tariffs may be entrenched in Washington. In politics, it’s often “careful what you wish for,” especially if it involves higher prices on an inflation-fatigued public.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Gary Borders

Voter Registration Deadline Nearing

The deadline to register to vote in the Nov. 3 general election is Oct. 5. Early voting starts Oct. 19 and runs through Oct. 30, according to the Texas Secretary of State’s office.

The last day for an application to vote by mail must be received by Friday, Oct. 23.

Voters can visit votetexas.gov to confirm they are registered to vote, see what is on the ballot where they live, and get other election-related information. That site is maintained by the Texas Secretary of State.

Meanwhile, The Texas Tribune reported that an unknown number of voter registration applications were delayed because of an error by the Texas Department of Public Safety. The agency failed to forward the applications, submitted online through its driver’s license portal, to county voter registrars.

Texas Democrats have called on Gov. Greg Abbott to investigate the problem.

With the Oct. 5 deadline approaching, the delayed registrations from DPS could add to processing backlogs at affected counties. A spokesperson for the secretary of state’s office said affected voters can still have their ballots counted as long as they submitted their registration before Oct. 5.

The DPS portal accounted for about 6 million voter registrations from 2020 to 2024. Texas has more than 18 million registered voters.

JUDGE: TEXAS MUST AIR-CONDITION ALL PRISONS BY END OF 2029

A federal judge has ordered the state to air-condition its entire prison system by the end of 2029, the Austin American-Statesman reported. The Texas Department of Criminal Justice has estimated that could cost the state $1.5 billion.

Nearly two-thirds of the 143,000 prisoners now held in Texas prisons do not have air-conditioning. In his ruling, U.S. District Judge Robert Pittman said the prison agency had “minimized and misled” the court about the seriousness of the heat problem.

“The data that TDCJ does not collect also paints a picture of an agency that is not attempting to meaningfully understand or document the dangers and impacts of heat,” Pitman wrote.

A TDCJ spokesperson took issue with the judge’s characterization.

“TDCJ has robust heat mitigation efforts in place to protect the safety of its population and staff,” Amanda Hernandez said in an email.

The state will appeal the ruling.

CAMP MYSTIC UNDER CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION

Camp Mystic, the Hill Country girls’ summer camp where 28 people died in the July 2025 floods, is under criminal investigation by the Texas Rangers, kut.org reported. Fourteen search warrants were executed against family and staff members who ran the camp. KUT News obtained a copy of the affidavit filed against Tweety Eastland, whose husband, Dick, was one of the 28 who died.

The affidavit states the Rangers have probable cause to believe the camp’s leaders committed a number of criminal offenses, including manslaughter, criminally negligent homicide, injury to a child, deadly conduct, and abandoning or endangering a child.

“These offenses were committed against child campers—including both deceased victims and surviving campers of the flood event,” Brant Johnston, an investigator with the Texas Rangers, wrote in the document.

The affidavits are intended to allow the Rangers to obtain electronic data from Tweety and other members of the Eastland family that owns the camp, as well as camp staff members. A Kerr County state district judge approved it earlier this month.

Camp Mystic’s owners are being sued in civil court by more than a dozen families.

LAND COMMISSIONER BACKS VIRTUAL BORDER WALL

Texas Land Commissioner Dawn Buckingham told the Houston Chronicle that a virtual border wall makes “the most sense” for much of West Texas, where plans to build a physical wall have drawn considerable opposition.

“The bottom line is there are places where physical barriers make sense, and there are places where they don’t. And we just want the solution that’s best for Texas,” Buckingham said in an interview with the Chronicle’s editorial board. “I think especially when you get to West Texas, a virtual wall, in my opinion, makes the most sense for most of that area.”

The Trump administration is moving to build a border wall across the more than 13 million acres the state agency controls, most of which is in West Texas. Gov. Greg Abbott has previously questioned the logic of building a physical wall in “rugged, isolated areas like Big Bend.”

Buckingham sent a cease-and-desist letter in July to U.S. Customs and Border Protection after a contractor for the agency was discovered clearing state-controlled land without permission.

Buckingham is running for reelection against Democrat Ben Flores, a former Bay City council member.

RED TIDE REPORTED OFF THE COAST OF GALVESTON

Biologists with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department have begun receiving reports of a red tide bloom off the coast of Galveston. They are monitoring fish kills and taking water samples around Crystal Beach and southern Galveston Island.

“Water samples indicate moderate to high concentrations of red tide cells, and beachgoers are reporting mild to severe respiratory irritation resulting from the bloom,” the news release said.

Red tide is a naturally occurring concentration of a microscopic alga that produces a toxin. Dense concentrations are known as “blooms” and kill fish by paralyzing their central nervous systems. This can result in dead fish washing up on Gulf beaches

In the Library

Sometimes I have to give myself a talking-to.

I got back from my whirlwind library tour and had a lot to do. I tried to get things done and felt like I was spinning my wheels, leaving tire tracks on my office floor.

One of the things I had to do was record the comments made on the surveys handed out at my performances. This was something I was dreading. I suspected most of them would be nice—and there is nothing harder for me to do than read nice things written about me. I get embarrassed. I don’t want to do it. But recording those surveys was one of the things on my long to-do list. So I started.

People were not asked to provide their names, but the first survey was signed “Pearl.” I remembered Pearl. She had bright blue eyes. She told me she had recently moved into a senior assisted-living facility.

Pearl wrote, “It was very good and very interesting. I like hearing about books.” Pearl and I chatted after the show. She had come to the library with a walker because she had taken a bad fall that spring and broken both her femurs. I told her that sounded terribly painful. She told me she had almost lost her life numerous times, and now she thought she should write about that: how she had almost died several times but was still alive and well—with a walker—attending a presentation at her local library.

I talked a lot about optimism in my presentation, and a woman came up to me afterward and asked, “Do you think there is a difference between optimism and hope?”

I told her I wasn’t sure and asked her what she thought. She appeared thoughtful for a moment. She was going straight from the library to a fish fry to support a political candidate who probably will not win. But she felt he wanted to do the right things, so she was campaigning for him anyway.

“I think hope is what you do even if you know it won’t work out,” she said. “Because it might work out for your kids—or your grandkids.”

I liked that a lot. Another man told me he was turning 90 later this year. When he heard a character in my book had a passionate romance at 86, he said he thought 86 was kind of young. I promised him that the next romance I wrote would involve mature adults.

I kept reading surveys. “You inspired me so much! I was feeling old and down—not anymore. I’m not a writer but a painter, and I am going to try.”

I had no idea who this painter was. I wondered if they would start painting. I wished they had told me in person so I could have encouraged them.

“Loved your enthusiasm and can-do attitude. I left feeling good today. Thank you.”

“Very uplifting. Food for my soul.”

“You inspired me to write my story for family.”

And that was when I gave myself a talking-to.

I saw how foolish I was to be embarrassed. I have been given the chance to provide a little optimism, a little entertainment and maybe a little hope. It isn’t a big thing that I do, but maybe it helps. And that is enough.

“People keep telling me I should write my story down!” Pearl said, right before she left. “You should!” I agreed.

Pearl nodded thoughtfully. “I might have to do that. I hear they’re starting up a writing group in the library.”

Till next time,
Carrie

SEASON FOOTBALL WEEK 6
Texans look to get back on track against Titans:
No. 2 Georgia faces No. 7 Alabama in key SEC tilt

This could be a very interesting weekend in college football and the NFL as a number of key matchups are planned for the second week of October.

All eyes will be on Tuscaloosa, AL on Saturday night in prime time (6:30 p.m. on ABC) as No. 2-ranked Georgia visits No. 7-ranked Alabama. The winner of this one might pretty much assure itself of a berth in the College Football Playoff (CFP) and take a leg up in the SEC rankings.

While those two do battle on Saturday night, No. 1-ranked Texas will face arch rival Oklahoma in the Red River Rivalry in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. Two weeks ago, Steve Sarkisian's team picked up a huge road win with a 20-17 win at Tennessee, while the Sooners were routed at Georgia, 41-13. Things are not going well in Norman, but an upset win over their long-time rival could save their season. We shall see.

There's another good one in the SEC at No. 11-ranked LSU takes on No. 24-ranked Kentucky, one of the surprise teams thus far this season. The Wildcats have an explosive offense and would like nothing more than to hand Tiger head coach Lane Kiffin his second loss of the season.

There's also a good one in the Big 10 as No. 23-ranked UCLA, another surprise team so far, takes on No. 15 Oregon in a conference elimination game for both teams.

Week 5 of the NFL season begins with Thursday Night Football as two desperate teams meet at Jerry World in Arlington as Tampa Bay, which lost its first three games and will be without starting QB Baker Mayfield (thumb injury) take on the Cowboys, who dropped two of their first three games. The loser of this one can pretty much kiss their playoff hopes goodbye.

Speaking of desperate teams, the Texans, who lost their first three games, will look to get back on track against a very beatable Tennessee team in Nashville. DeMeco Ryans' team can ill afford to lose to a bad Titans team.

There's a big one in the NFC West as San Francisco, who have opened with three straight wins, visits the defending Super Bowl champs Seattle, which was upset at Washington two weeks ago.

Week five concludes with a good one on Monday Night Football as Buffalo visits the Los Angeles Rams. The Bills also won their first three games behind the arm and legs of QB Josh Allen, while the Rams dropped two of their first three games. This is sort of a big game for the Rams.

NCAA
UCLA at Oregon - This is an elimination game in the Big 10 as No. 23-ranked UCLA takes on No. 15-ranked Oregon. UCLA won three of its first four games and has put up some big offensive numbers under first-year head coach Bob Chesney. The Bruins are led by QB Nico Iamaleva (820 yards, 4 TDs), running back Wayne Knight (445 yards, 9 TDs) and wideout Semaj Morgan (14 receptions, 174 yards, 2 TDs). The Ducks may have saved their season two weeks ago with a blowout win over USC as QB Dante Moore (926 yards, 9 TDs) suffered a concussion after taking a cheap shot from a USC linebacker. Moore should be cleared for this game and he will team with running back Jordan Davison (260 yards, 5 TDs) and wide receivers Evan Stewart (22 receptions, 278 yards, 3 TDs) and DaKorin Moore (14 receptions, 234 yards, 4 TDs) to outscore the Bruins. My pick, Oregon

36, UCLA 33
Texas vs. Oklahoma - No. 1-ranked Texas takes on arch rival Oklahoma in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas' Fair Park as the Red River Rivalry is renewed. Two weeks ago, the 'Horns picked up a huge road win with a 20-17 victory over then No. 14 Tennessee, while the Sooners were waylaid at Georgia, 41-13. OU is struggling on offense behind QB John Mateer (883 yards, 8 TDs/4 interceptions). Things may not get much better this week when he faces a UT defense that recorded 10 sacks against the Vols, led by defensive end Collin Simmons with five sacks. Simmons did hurt his team with a stupid unsportsmanlike penalty, but head coach Steve Sarkisian the issue has been resolved and won't happen again. We shall see. Look for UT QB Arch Manning (865 yards, 7 TDs), running backs Hollywood Smothers (198 yards, 2 TDs) and Ralek Brown (196 yards, 4 TDs) and wideouts Ryan Wingo (19 receptions, 239 yards, 2 TDs) and Cam Coleman (12 receptions, 208 yards, 4 TDs) to have big days as the 'Horns continue OU's miserable season. My pick, Texas 31, Oklahoma 13

LSU at Kentucky - This could be a good one in the SEC as No. 11 LSU visits No. 24 Kentucky, which has been one of the surprise teams thus far in the 2026 season under first-year head coach Will Stein. The Wildcats already own a road win at Texas A&M, while the Tigers also dispatched the Aggies, 35-6 two weeks ago. Kentucky is led by QB Kenny Minchey (876 yards, 8 TDs), running backs Jason Patterson (326 yards, 3 TDs) and CJ Baxter (313 yards, 5 TDs) and wide receiver Kenny Darby (13 receptions, 226 yards, 2 TDs). LSU has some offensive firepower of its own behind QB Sam Leavitt (1,044 passing yards, 5 TDs)/220 rushing yards, 6 TDs). Leavitt injured his hamstring, so it's unknown if he will play in this game. Head coach Lane Kiffin has a capable backup in Landen Clark, who scored two rushing TDs in the rout of the Aggies. LSU also has a capable runner in Dillon Jones (348 yards, 4 TDs) and a big-play wide receiver in Jackson Harris (11 receptions, 280 yards, 2 TDs). Look for Kentucky to hang around in this game, but look for the LSU defense to make a few plays down the stretch to pick up a big road win. My pick, LSU 26, Kentucky 23

Georgia at Alabama - The Game of the Week in college football pits No. 2-ranked Georgia against No. 7 Alabama in prime time (6:30 p.m., ABC). Last year, Kelon DeBoer's team picked up a big road win against Georgia so Kirby Smart's team would like to return the favor this time around in Tuscaloosa. Both teams have explosive offenses as Georgia has averaged 54 points in their first four games, while 'Bama has averaged 48 points in its first four games. The 'Dawgs also have a solid defense and have allowed just 13 points per game thus far, while the Crimson Tide has allowed 20.5 points per game. Both teams have effective QB as Georgia is led by Gunner Stockton (754 passing yards, 10 TDs/100 rushing yards), while 'Bama is led by sophomore Keelon Russell (1,129 passing yards, 8 TDs/168 rushing yards, 3 TDs). Both teams have solid runners in Georgia's Nate Frazier (202 yards, 5 TDs) and 'Bama has Daniel Hill (225 yards, 4 TDs) and both teams have big-play wide receivers as Craig Dandridge (8 receptions, 176 yards) and Talyn Taylor (9 receptions, 169 yards, 3 TDs), while the Tide will counter with Ryan Coleman-Williams (17 receptions, 333 yards, 3 TDs) and Lotzeir Brooks (17 receptions. 256 yards, 1 TD). This game could come down to the more experienced QB, and that would be Stockton. Let's see if the stage is too big for

Russell. My pick, Georgia 26, Alabama 24

NFL
Tampa Bay at Dallas - Week five begins with Thursday Night Football and will feature a couple of disappointing teams thus far this season as Tampa Bay visits Dallas. The Bucs lost their first three games and also starting QB Baker Mayfield, who is out three weeks with a dislocated thumb. Dallas, meanwhile, dropped two of its first three games, the most frustrating coming two weeks ago in Brazil when they gift wrapped a 34-31 last-second win by the Ravens with some questionable calls in the waning seconds of the game. There is little room for error for the Pokes, so look for QB Dak Prescott (780 yards, 7 TDs), running back Javonte Williams (169 yards, 3 total TDs) and wideouts CeeDee Lamb (20 receptions, 309 yards, 3 TDs) and George Pickens (16 receptions, 150 yards) to have big games as they take care of business on Thursday night. My pick, Dallas 33, Tampa Bay 16
Houston at Tennessee - Speaking of struggling teams, the Texans have been perhaps the biggest disappointment thus far as they lost their first three games to start the season. DeMeco Ryan's team needs to take care of business against a pretty bad Tennessee team. Look for QB C.J. Stroud (794 yards, 3 TDs) to get the offense going (about time) and it would help if running back David Montgomery (103 yards, 3 total TDs) could get going. It would also help to get big-play wide receiver Nico Collins back on the field after he missed a couple of games with yet another hamstring injury. Look for the Houston defense to play better in this one as defensive end Will Anderson Jr. (4 sacks) makes it a long day for Tennessee second-year QB Cam Ward (504 yards, 2 TDs). My pick, Houston 27, Tennessee 12
San Francisco at Seattle - A big early-season game in the NFC West pits the 49ers against the defending Super Bowl champs in Seattle. SF has been the hottest team out of the gates winning its first three behind a potent offense led by QB Brock Purdy (789 yards, 9 TDs), running back Christian McCaffrey (166 rushing yards, 3 TDs/13 receptions, 104 yards), wideout Deebo Samuel (9 receptions, 159 yards, 2 TDs) and tight end George Kittle (12 receptions, 174 yards, 3 TDs). That until will face a Seahawks defense that played well in its first two games, but gave up 33 points to an average Washington team two weeks ago that started backup QB Marcus Mariota two weeks ago. Seattle has some weapons of its own on offense and got starting QB Sam Darnold (392 yards, 4 TDs) back in the Washington game. He also has a solid running in rookie running back Jadarian Price (169 yards) and the best wide receiver in the game in Jaxon Smith-Njigba (27 receptions, 405 yards, 6 TDs). Look for Seattle to play well on both sides of the ball as they let the 49ers know they aren't going to give up their division title without a fight. My pick, Seattle 26, San Francisco 20

Buffalo at Los Angeles Rams - Week 5 concludes with a good one as the Bills head cross country to take on the Rams in what could be a preview of SB 61. Buffalo won its first three games behind QB Josh Allen (786 passing yards, 5 TDs/114 rushing yards, 6 TDs), running back James Cook (346 yards, 2 TDs), tight end Dalton Kincaid (14 receptions, 263 yards, 1 TD) and wide receiver DJ Moore (11 receptions, 167 yards, 1 TD). The Rams lost two of their first three games and need to get going. QB Matthew Stafford (872 yards/6 TDs) has gotten off to a solid start. He's getting help on offense from running back Kyren Williams (214 rushing yards, 1 TD/11 receptions, 106 yards, 1 TD) and wideout Davante Adams (18 receptions, 358 yards, 2 TDs). It would help Stafford if star wide receiver Puca Nacua (5 receptions, 74 yards in one game) would return from a groin injury. Look for the Rams to put four quarters together as they win a wild one on Monday Night Football. My pick, Los Angeles Rams 33, Buffalo 31

ment and incarcerated in a concentration camp in Manzanar, California.

Lazo was so outraged that he joined friends on a train that took hundreds to Manzanar in May 1942. Manzanar officials never asked him about his ancestry.

JAPANESE PRISON CAMP: the City of Manzanar is the site of one of ten American concentration camps, where more than 120,000 innocent Japanese Americans were incarcerated during World War II, from March 1942 to November 1945.

PRISON CAMP FOOD & TOILETS: after the innocent Japanese were uprooted from their homes and communities, they then were incarcerated and had to endure primitive, sub-standard conditions and lack of privacy. They had to wait in line for meals, at toilets, at latrines, and at the laundry room.

There was a strict meal schedule; they had one hour to eat. They ate breakfast from 7:00 – 8:00 am in the morning, lunch from 12:00 – 1:00 pm and dinner from 5:00 – 6:00 pm.

The barracks at Manzanar had no cooking areas, and all meals were served at block mess halls. The mess hall lines were long and stretched outside unsheltered regardless of freezing or hot weather. The cafeteria-style-eating was as a cause of the deterioration of the family due to their families not always being able to eat together because of

LAZO STANDS UP: “Internment was immoral”, Lazo told the Los Angeles Times. “It was wrong, and I couldn’t accept it.” “These people hadn’t done anything that I hadn’t done except to go to Japanese language school.”

Lazo attended school at the camp, and also spent time entertaining orphaned children who had been forcibly relocated to Manzanar. In 1944, Lazo was elected president of his class at Manzanar High School. After his graduation, he remained at the camp until August 1944, when he was inducted into the US Army.

LAZO WAR HERO: He served as a staff sergeant in the South Pacific until 1946, helping liberate the Philippines. He was awarded the Bronze Star for heroism in combat. The film Stand Up for Justice: The Ralph Lazo Story documents his life story, particularly his stand against the incarceration.

PROFESSOR LAZO & VOTER ADVOCATE: after the war, he returned to Los Angeles, where he graduated from UCLA with a degree in sociology and earned a master's degree in education from Cal State Northridge. He spent his career teaching, including at Los Angeles Valley College, mentoring disabled students and encouraging Latinos to attend college and vote.

MANZANAR DECLARED RACE PREJUDICE: Lazo also helped raise funds for a class-action lawsuit to win reparations for Japanese Americans interned during the war, which resulted in the Civil Liberties Act of 1988. This act offered an apology to interned Japanese Americans on behalf of the U.S. government and stated that the internment was based on “race prejudice, war hysteria, and a failure of political leadership.”

During the time Manzanar prison was in operation, 188 weddings were held, 541 children were born in the camp, and between 135 and 146 individuals died.

The Manzanar National Historic Site, which preserves and interprets the legacy of Japanese American incarceration in the United States, is identified by the United States National Park Service. Manzanar means “apple orchard” in Spanish.

Lazo died in 1992 from liver cancer, at the age of 67.

“Matchbox:The Movie”

“Spider-Man: Brand New Day” (PG-13) — The fourth installment in Tom Holland’s “Spider-Man” film series is finally out to rent on Oct. 6 after its legendary run in theaters, where it became the third-highest-grossing film of all time! (Luckily, Marvel isn’t holding back with on-demand streaming of the film, like Universal is with Christopher Nolan’s “The Odyssey.”) Zendaya (“The Odyssey”) and Jacob Batalon (“The Wrecking Crew”) are back in their roles from the previous three films, while Jon Berthal’s Punisher makes his first appearance in the series. More newcomers include Florence Pugh (“Thunderbolts”), who joins the cast as her MCU character Yelena Belova, and Sadie Sink (“Stranger Things”) makes her debut in the MCU as Jean Grey. The film picks up four years after Dr. Strange’s spell wipes Peter’s (Holland)

(Netflix)

“Avatar: Seven Havens” (TV-PG) — If you have any Zillennials in your home, you know the chokehold that “Avatar: The Last Airbender” still has on them. It’s long regarded as one of the best animated fantasy series of all time and introduced us to beloved characters like Aang, Katara, Zuko, Appa and more. Shortly after the original “Avatar” series ended, a sequel series, “The Legend of Korra,” aired from 2012 to 2014. Now, 12 years later, a third series is set to premiere on Oct. 9, following Korra’s Avatar successor, Pavi, who’s also a reincarnation of Korra. Taking place 225 years after “Korra,” Pavi and her twin sister, Nisha, team up to save the Seven Havens before an apocalyptic event destroys their world. (Paramount+)

“Matchbox: The Movie” (PG-13) — After the $1 billion feat that “Barbie” (2023) achieved in theaters, Mattel had no choice but to wonder, “What if we made movies about every iconic toy we have?” However, because “Masters of the Universe” bombed, they decided to go for a streaming-only release for this action-comedy film based on the Matchbox toy cars. John Cena (“Coyote vs. Acme”) leads the film as spy and former soldier Sean Walker, who reconnects with the childhood friends he used to play cars with. But while they’re at the bar, the entire group gets drugged and kidnapped by a group of criminals who are searching for a nuclear warhead; and even though his past almost gets his old friends killed, they decide to help Sean in an attempt to steal the bomb and clear their names. Check it out on Oct. 9. (Apple TV)

Q: Has Catherine Zeta-Jones retired from acting? Also, has she ever starred in anything with her husband, Michael Douglas? — R.B.

A: While Catherine Zeta-Jones’ level of stardom isn’t as high as it was during the earlier part of her career, when she starred in movies like “The Mask of Zorro” and “Chicago” (the latter of which she won an Oscar for), she’s still acting — a lot. She currently plays Morticia Addams in the Netflix series “Wednesday,” and right before this, she starred in two short-lived shows: “National Treasure: Edge of History” on Disney+ and “Prodigal Son” on Fox.

If you missed it, be sure to check out her portrayal of the late, great film star Olivia de Havilland in the TV miniseries “Feud” (on Hulu), opposite Jessica Lange’s Joan Crawford. Even though she wasn’t nominated for an Emmy, it’s a series that’s worth watching for its fabulous depiction of an on-set rivalry during Hollywood’s Golden Age.

Also, Zeta-Jones isn’t slowing down anytime soon. She’s co-starring with Sir Anthony Hopkins in the upcoming movie “A Visit to Grandpa’s,” which takes place in her native Wales, and you can currently catch her in the new Amazon Prime Video series “Kill Jackie.”

As for her hubby, Michael Douglas, they both starred in the Oscar-nominated film “Traffic” in 2000, but didn’t share any scenes together. They actually had met two years earlier at a film festival and tied the knot a month before “Traffic” premiered.

Michael Douglas and Catherine Zeta-Jones with two new actors — Laura Bailey and Ian Alexander — who incidentally did voice work for the video-game version of “The Last of Us.”

Q: I thought Ben Stiller’s daughter was really good in “The Comeback.” Is she going to be in anything else soon? — M.G.

A: Ben Stiller grew up with two hilarious actor parents — Anne Meara and Jerry Stiller, who formed their own comedy duo. The funny genes are strong in their family and in Ben’s wife, Christine Taylor (“The Brady Bunch Movie”). So, it’s no wonder that their daughter, Ella Stiller, appears to be a natural as well. She played Lisa Kudrow’s accident-prone assistant in the HBO series “The Comeback” and also had a recurring role in “And Just Like That ...”

Next up for Ella is the CBS legal drama series “Cupertino,” where she’ll be a series regular alongside Mike Colter (“Luke Cage”) and Busy Philipps (“Girls5eva”).
